Disaronno  com

There is an episode of Friends in which Chandler explains that the reason he loves miniature mini-bar liquor bottles so much is because holding them makes him feel like a giant. This is precisely the effect I hope you are experiencing with the new FHM, in which we have moved from an oversized format to a magazine of more conventional dimensions. Besides making you feel more gigantic, our new compact style enables us to deliver reading pleasure in a more concentrated, intense and refined dosage—like the powdered bear gall that fuels Asian lovers.

Just as importantly, it should solve the problems for those retailers whose racks can only accommodate magazines of a certain size. The alternatives until now were to cram FHM into a slot that was too small for it, like forcing a telephone directory into a toaster, or hide it under a great stack of Word Search magazines and hope it would go away. Now that FHM slides snugly into all racks at checkouts and airports, it should be easier than ever for you to find your favorite publication.

At the same time, we have improved the quality of the ingredients from which FHM is made (that would be paper and ink and love), and have worked late into the afternoon on the design to make it easier to navigate. The magazine has also somehow become even more mesmerizing, while the content is as funny, sexy and useful as always. All this hard work is by way of saying thanks to all of you who have bought FHM with such enthusiasm over the last year, making it the fastest growing magazine in the country. To those of you who are still wavering, I'd just like to remind you that FHM costs millions of dollars and hundreds of man-hours to make, yet is available to you at less than the price of a pack of cigarettes, a bottle of beer or an iced double mocha frappuccino—or whatever the fancy coffee industry is currently ordering you to buy. So when it comes down to deciding what to spend your four bucks on, remember this: FHM is an affordable, reliable and enduring luxury. Coffee is just a laxative.

Enjoy the issue.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Every day, our mailman, Harvey, brings us our mail. Sometimes he smiles, sometimes he grunts, but more often, he makes threatening gestures and throws gang signs. However, if you would send us more mail—bags and bags of it—his ugly mug would be hidden beneath the pile. There's something in it for you too: Any letters deemed funny, clever or original enough to be printed on this page earn $50. Letter of the Month gets $200. Address your envelope to Letters to the Editor, FHM, 110 Fifth Ave., New York, NY 10011. Or send an e-mail to letters@FHMUS.com.

FHM LETTER OF THE MONTH

Reader trades Tesh

To get one of the items in the October "FHM Swap Shop," you said readers should offer "a date with your girlfriend or an autographed picture of John Tesh." I want that FHM necklace, but I won't give up my girl. So I went on eBay and bid for an autographed picture of John Tesh. I still don't know who he is, but it only cost $5. Do I get the necklace? Dennis Laboy Jr., Glenview, IL You not only get the necklace, but also the $200 prize for being Letter of the Month. To further sweeten the deal, we're including Mr. Tesh's magical CDs Sax All Night, Sax by the Fire and Sax on the Beach. You needn't know the man to love the sound.

FHM ruins reader's life

In the October 2001 issue, you published my letter and photo in the "Who the Hell Are You?" box. But you circled the wrong guy. The "bum" who jumped into our picture is that dirty-looking dude on the left. Now everyone thinks my friend is the bum. People even stop me on the street to ask why I'm hanging out with a bum. John Hughes, Ft. Worth, TX Maybe if your buddy would stop wearing boxes for shoes and tape for underwear, people wouldn't make that assumption.

'My dentist works for Saddam'

In the article on Andy McNab ["Desert Torture!," November 2001], he describes how after being captured in Iraq, they beat him, then called in a dentist to fix his mouth. Only the dentist didn't help at all. Instead, he pulled out Andy's teeth one by one with no novocaine. I think that was my dentist he was talking about. He's one sadistic bastard. He plays awful music and he never gives me gas. Tell Andy I know his pain. Blain Edwards, New York, NY What did you expect for a measly $10 co-pay?

have to suffer far worse consequences. Stan Farkington, San Diego, CA Quit whining. At least you're not stuck behind The Drew Carey Show every week.

Reader is down with Willa

Sexy Willa Ford said she takes speed bumps sideways so the bottom of her car doesn't hit the ground ["Born to Be Wild," November 2001]. She then goes on to say, "If you know about that, you know you're ghetto." Well, I know about that. I take the bumps sideways in my wheelchair so the backpack I hang off the rear doesn't thump. I never really thought of myself as ghetto, but am I?

Scott Whitmore, Oklahoma City, OK

Only if your chair's got a horn that plays "La Cucaracha" and bounces.

Leary's going down

I don't get it. Denis Leary ["Quote, Unquote," November 2001] brags about trying to steal a car off a movie set and somehow it's OK. I borrow my ex-girlfriend's ride for four hours without her knowledge, and all of a sudden, I've got to do community service well into the next decade. What gives? Is Mr. Leary above the law? If I'm going down, he should

THE BROWNSTEIN NOSE

Perhaps FHM should change its name to TBDME PFDM (The Best Damn Magazine Ever Published For Discerning Men). I just saw my first issue and not only did I subscribe for myself, I've requested 25 subscription cards for my friends. Further, my lady appreciates your adding spice to our lives. I've enclosed a photo of myself with some pals. Otis Manning, Washington, DC

Hasselhoff: fashion guru

Kudos to David Hasselhoff for busting out the old acid-washed denim for November's "Quote, Unquote." And pairing it with white moccasins is sheer brilliance. Is it cool for me to pull mine out of the attic, too, or does it only work for him because he's a rock star?

Brent Orrasco, Cheyenne, WY

They only work for him because he's so naturally cool, he once woke a girl from a coma with his presence. Unless you've done the same, stick with the shit-kickers.

her hair, so she's a Hair Twirler too. Just the other day, she was walking out of class huffing and puffing like Darth Vader, making her a Heavy Breather. You're the experts—what should I do? Mark Stampton, Newport, RI

Step away from the hottie. Now, slowly raise your hands above your head and wait for the authorities to take you to the dank, dark hole where stalkers like you belong.

WHO THE HELL ARE YOU?

Life is full of unknown people: the girl who ignores your advances, the celebrity who never returns your fan mail, the baby son you've abandoned for a simpler life and a Mexican whore named Consuela. If you've been devastated by yet another stranger—one who popped into your life by showing up in one of your pictures, then left without so much as a word—send it to Who the Hell Are You?, FHM, 110 Fifth Ave., New York, NY 10011. Hopefully, a fellow reader will be able to identify the mystery person and give you a sense of closure.

Cubs game gets worse

"My girlfriend and I had primo seats to a Chicago Cubs game, so we asked an usher to snap our picture," writes Ken Azarela from Crystal Lake, IL. "It's bad enough to sit through a Cubs game, and it's even worse to have a Neanderthal ruin your only pleasant memory from the event." Hey, Oddly Cheerful Cubs Fan—who the hell are you?

Squinter crashes party

"My friends and I were celebrating New Year's at a local bar called

Maggie Mae's," writes Michael Trejo from Austin, TX. "I felt someone jump in behind me, but when I turned around, I couldn't figure out who the wacky prankster was. Now I want to hunt his hunchback ass down and whip the hell out of it. Please help." Hey, Quasimodo—who the hell are you?

Dog treats feed yearning

After spending years watching my dog shun such mainstream treats as Sausages and Milk-Bones, my curiosity was piqued while reading about Butt Stink dog treats [Reporter, November 2001]. It makes sense to me that a dog would prefer a starfish-shaped snack, but do you have any solid proof that he'll like these any better?

Benjamin Carrico, Boise, ID

Our intern went back for seconds.

Reader struggles to read signs

The article on body language and how to use it to nail hot honeys ["Seduce Any Woman," November 2001] seemed to contain a lot of good advice. But what do I do if the woman I'm after fits into more than one of your categories? I was watching this superfine fox at a bar one night and she was touching her lips, which would make her a Lip Stroker. But when I started following her around campus, she was twirling her hair, so she's a Hair Twirler too. Just the other day, she was walking out of class huffing and puffing like Darth Vader, making her a Heavy Breather. You're the experts—what should I do? Mark Stampton, Newport, RI

Step away from the hottie. Now, slowly raise your hands above your head and wait for the authorities to take you to the dank, dark hole where stalkers like you belong.

Braid-lover speaks up

Alicia Keys? Oh, my God, she's fine. And she has never looked better than she did in FHM's amazing feature ["Body & Soul," November 2001]. In your interview with her she says, "Even my hair has fans." She's right. I'm one of them. Can you let her know? Please? Then ask where I can get mine done like hers. Thanks!

Philip Borden, Fort Collins, CO

In Cancun, just like all the other sorority girls on spring break.

THE FHM SWAP SHOP

What's it worth to you?

Having pawed at the pages of FHM until their fingerprints disappeared into a mass of paper cuts, many readers have written in looking for a better way to get closer to our models. Well, here's the solution: Offer us something. Maybe gold bullion, a home-cooked dinner from your grandma or a collection of your belly-button lint. FHM will take one of you lucky gentlemen up on your offer and make the trade of a lifetime. Up for swapping this month: the leather lace-up shoes worn by cover girl Rebecca Romijn-Stamos. Send your propositions to The Swap Shop, FHM, 110 Fifth Ave., New York, NY 10011, or send an e-mail to swapshop@FHMUS.com.

Axl is evil

"The FHM Definitive Guide to Rock" [November 2001] rocked pretty hard. I was especially pleased to see that you included Axl Rose, but I can't believe his write-up failed to mention his legendary relationship with supermodel Erin Everly. She once testified against him, claiming he'd tied her up naked and left her in his closet—even when her friends came by looking for her. That's what I call wearing the pants in a relationship. Mark Walton, via e-mail

For what you consider pants-wearing, federal judges happily dish out three to 10 in the clink.

Wife performs camera tricks

Justin Quinnell loved that camera he sticks in his mouth [Reporter, November 2001]. But what's the big deal? My wife can deep-throat a telephoto lens. You really should meet her. Ron Jestice, Iowa Park, TX

No, thanks. The last thing we need around here is yet another barrel-necked circus freak.

Homophobe makes funny

The "Sheriff" shown on page 165 ["Total Support," November 2001] wouldn't happen to be the sheriff of Gay Town—you know, that quaint little hamlet between Steroidville and Closetburg—would he? Adam Rome, San Antonio, TX Come on, you're just jealous because your drawers say "Deputy."

Visit FHMUS.com and send us your comments, queries and beefs.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH FHM?

Face it, mis-takes happen. And that can be a good thing. After all, if prophylactic manufacturing were held to higher standards, you probably wouldn't be here. Luckily, if you find a hole in our tight proofreading web, it doesn't mean your life has to change too drastically. Just point it out and, if we print your complaint, we'll pay you $20. Of course, it's only fair that the spaz who qualifies as "Idiot of the Month" sends us $20 for wasting our time.

FHM prints lies

In "Groupies on the Couch" [November 2001], one of those girls is a big liar! When asked, "What is your groupie getup?" 24-year-old Elyse says in '84, she liked Baroque fashion. This would have made her a 7-year-old groupie! S. Rice, Abbotsford, BC

Four short of a six-pack

In the interview with roadie Matt Gracey [November 2001], the Fender Stratocaster he's pictured with has only two strings. Brad Thrombas, via e-mail

Nothing new about tits

Denis Leary said Elizabeth Hurley was the first person to say "tits" on TV. That's not true. Susan Dey's character on L.A. Law said it more than a decade ago.

Aaron Loe, Philadelphia, PA

Label logos

In your "Do You Know Rock?" quiz, you had the logo for Death Row Records labeled as Snoop Dogg's logo in your answer section. What's the deal with that? Martin Landome, via e-mail

IDIOT OF THE MONTH 16

In November's Cake World, you've got the wrong flag on the cake representing England. I don't know what flag it is, but I know it's not England's. Kenny Buntcountry, via e-mail

That is England's flag. The one you're more accustomed to is the UK flag. Had the story been from Scotland, which is also part of the UK, we'd have run the Scottish flag, and you'd still be confused. Just get us our $20 by February 1.

"People still ask about my Bell days," says 23-year-old Natalia Cigliuti, who spent four seasons playing Lindsay Warner on Saved by the Bell's spinoff, Saved by the Bell: The New Class. "I've got such a weird collection of fans from that. It's always like trash men and cab drivers who want autographs. Who knew the show had such a blue-collar following?" Who indeed.

Most discerning critics say The New Class didn't hold a candle to the original—there were no Casey Kasem-hosted episodes, and Mr. Belding and Screech made a poor team, nothing like the heat generated from the old Zack Morris and Mr. Belding rivalry. But Natalia insists fans weren't deterred. "I was in Rhode Island recently, and I met a group of college kids who do Saved by the Bell and New Class trivia. They are very competitive about it, like some sort of game show. One question was 'When Lindsay wanted to go to The Max on a date, what was Mr. Belding doing?' I didn't even know the answer, but all these kids did. I was flipping out."

Perhaps it was Saved by the Bell's cult following that opened doors for Natalia at Beverly Hills, 90210 after she graduated The New Class. Though it was only a small recurring role, the experience was something of an eye-opener. "I couldn't believe how different it was on the set. Everybody was in everybody else's dressing room," says the New York City native. "Jason Priestley cracked open a bottle of wine and I couldn't believe it. I was like, 'Whoa, you can just do whatever you want here?'" impressed with her 90210 performance that he quickly offered her a leading part on his short-lived cops-on-bikes series Pacific Palisades. But the young starlet almost missed her chance to slip her tight rear into the blue spandex.

"Two nights before we started shooting, I went out dancing with some friends," she says. "This girl I didn't know kept bumping into my butt. When I asked her to stop, she said, 'What's your problem?' I didn't even get a word out before she grabbed a beer bottle and broke it on my head. I was all sliced up and bleeding everywhere. When I looked in the mirror, I almost passed out. I looked horrible." By the time the cameras began rolling, however, the cuts and scars were hardly noticeable. Amazing what a little concealer can do.

Though her big-screen appearances haven't quite worked out as planned (Held Up, starring Jamie Foxx and Nia Long, hardly stayed in theaters long enough to collect bad reviews, and Simon Sez co-starred Dennis Rodman—need we say more?), Natalla is optimistic about her next film, 2002's Reality Check. Yet she swears she won't be fazed if the film doesn't work out. "I don't even own a copy of Simon Sez," she says, showing how little interest she has in the industry. "I recently moved to Rhode Island, where I get to ride my horse almost every day. That's my reality. Nothing else really matters." (JB)

BREAKTHROUGH

WEARABLE SUB

Navy's innovative diving suit sinks like the NASDAQ

With the exception of rebellious Catholic schoolgirls, nothing goes down faster than a leaky submarine. And nothing else results in the loss of more seamen. To finally remedy that situation, the US Navy will soon introduce the Hard Suit 2000, a deep-sea getup that could provide writers with even more gratuitous sex puns.

Weighing a massive 1,700 pounds, the Hard Suit 2000 boasts a video camera, a sonar device, hand pods that can be fit with knives, claws and other tools, and 10 hours of oxygen, making it perfect for underwater rescue and recovery missions. Most impressive, however, is that the Hard Suit works to 3,000 feet below the ocean's surface. To put that in perspective, that sunken Russian sub, the Kursk, was sitting at 377 feet. Of course, with a price tag of $2.7 million per suit, the Russkies would have had to trade quite a few bottles of vodka for a crack at using one. (AW)

BREAD BAROMETER

Mundane appliance gets a strange overhaul

What has two slots, cooks breakfast and tells you how to dress? Well, yes, your wife, but keep thinking ... work with it ... yup, it's Toasty, an amazing prototype toaster!

"I just thought, 'Why can't the toaster tell me things I should know?'" says British design student Robin Southgate. "So I invented Toasty."

On first glance, the device might appear to be nothing more than a two-slotted toaster. But deep within its cleavage is a modem that downloads up-to-date local weather forecasts once bread is inserted. It then burns the appropriate symbol onto the toast—a sun, a cloud or a cloud with rain—so you know what to expect once you leave home.

"In the UK, we have an obsession with the weather," Southgate says. "We constantly check it on TV and in the paper. Now, instead of doing that, busy people can just stare at their toast. That can save almost 30 seconds." (JB)

To them, we offer thumb-wrestling. And for the naysayer who feels thumb wars leave the competitors feeling altogether too dignified? Toe-wrestling.

Similar to arm-wrestling—only without the arms or the reliance on muscles and skill— toe-wrestling began in 1974 when regulars at England's Olde Royal Oak Inn in Wetton came up with a painful series of obvious puns (opponents battle on the "toedium" until one gets a "toe down" or cries "toe much") and a game at which they thought Brits might possibly excel. In '77, however, the dentally challenged drunks had their hopes dashed when a sober Canadian captured the world title. Defeated, they canceled the championships until 1994, when the World Toe Wrestling Federation reemerged.

The WTWF petitioned the International Olympic Committee for toe-wrestling to be included in the upcoming Games. The federation's cause has been helped by both its sponsorship from Ben & Jerry's, and the fact that toe-wrestling was adopted as the national "sport" of the fictional-sounding yet very real Caribbean island of Santa-Maria Redonda. "We're a real sport now," said a representative. Then again, so is male figure skating. (JB)

WOMAN GIVES BIRTH TO 69TH CHILD

IN A MERE FOUR DECADES, ONE PEASANT WOMAN HAS BIRTHED 69 CHILDREN, INCLUDING MULTIPLE MULTIPLES

SOME ARE CALLING IT a miracle, others say it's just poor planning, but the fact remains that Mrs. Fedor Vassilyev gave birth to her 69th child early yesterday morning. With a successful end to her 17th pregnancy, the Russian peasant holds several records for her ability to churn out the newborns in groups. So far, she's had a whopping 16 pairs of twins, seven sets of triplets and four sets of quadruplets. And only two of the 69, all of whom were born between 1725 and 1765, have failed to survive infancy. Astounding.

Anglers finally zero in on a fetish to call their own

There are places in the Middle East where a woman is stoned simply for showing a bit of ankle. While that policy no doubt keeps Achmed's House of Pointy Rocks afloat, it also makes it damn hard for randy Iraqis to get their monthly bootie fix. Now we're certainly not diplomats, but here at FHM, we think we may have found the solution: Women in Waders.

Admittedly, when the first Women in Waders calendar rolled off the presses, no one even considered tapping the Mideast market. "Originally, I was just doing it for fishermen," explains calendar model and creator Melinda Hoeye. "But these days we get tons of mail from boot-fetish people who want to clean our waders."

The deceptively simple idea of placing scantly clad women in rubber hip-highs was inspired by Hoeye's husband, who would invite women out fishing, then cajole them into donning a pair of waders before heading out into the water. Instead of letting her man's roving eye and questionable boot love get her down, Hoeye decided to capitalize on other men with a similar craving for ladies in oversized galoshes.

"We also put in one duck hunting picture," Hoeye elaborates. "People also wear waders for that and I wanted to expand the concept." A bold move, to be sure, and not surprisingly, such simple genius can attract animosity. "At the sportsmen shows, the women hate me," the river madam continues. "They've even chased me out of the building." Good thing they don't have rocks. (AW)

Airboard lets mortals float through life like a one-man parade

Look at him," they'll say, "he probably thinks his shit doesn't stink." And maybe it doesn't—it's hard to say, really. It depends on your diet. But one thing is for certain: You'll sure feel special as you float along on your own personal hover-board. That is, once they're sold here in the States.

With a height of four feet, a diameter of just over six feet and a price tag that reads $25,000, the Australian-made Airboard can carry the gleefully unthrifty at speeds upward of 25 mph. "And the Airboard's easy to learn," enthuses Gary McCormack, overseas sales director for manufacturer Arbortech Industries. "We've even had a 79-year-old master it."

Though it's unclear whether "mastering" the device meant effortlessly controlling its glide or simply holding bone-still, terrified and drooling at the helm, McCormack promises the controls are simple enough for most. "You just start it up, hop on, adjust the throttle and go," he explains. "It's a cross between skiing, snowboarding, skateboarding, roller blading and piloting your own personal hovercraft." Easy. It's every man's fantasy: twins who know how to share and enjoy playing together. "Yeah, I've heard it a thousand times. But she's my sister," sighs 23-year-old Melanie Dupree, left, the slightly taller of the salacious pair. "Alison and I would never date the same guy. And definitely not at the same time." Of course, most men don't believe that. Especially Kevin McCroriston, a friend of the duo since they were 17. They want him to know it won't happen, just as they've told him every day for the past six years. But that doesn't mean you can't try. Before you do, here are some things you should know. . . .

Sissies steer clear

"I love guys who are cocky. I know most girls hate that, but I don't know," says Melanie. "When I met my last boyfriend, he was trying to get me to fight his girlfriend. How rude! I had to have him."

Flash the green

Adding the personal touch

THE DIAPER WASHER

Ron "Mud Flap" Harris makes babies' nappies poop-free

How does someone end up washing diapers?

Hard to say. I didn't even know diapers needed washing. All my kids wore Huggies; they get thrown out when they get dirty. But I knew the industrial laundry by my house was hiring, so I went by and applied. Until recently, they mainly did hospital scrubs, uniforms, linens for fine restaurants and dry-cleaning-type services. They still do all that, but then they started with diapers too. I guess a lot of people use the cloth ones, and

Why don't they wash their own?
The stuff gets pretty messy. Without going into too much detail, let's just say you don't want to be throwing it in with your other laundry. It will stain pretty much anything.

And the chunks—if it's chunky, it will clog the machines if you don't look after them properly. In the beginning, I shook them out, like a dirty towel. That's not a mistake you make twice. I got a little splattered. That's how I picked up my nickname, Mud Flap. Now I scrape them more like a dinner plate before throwing them into the washer.

What kind of precautions do you take so, you know, you don't mess yourself up?

I always wear gloves. That's a must. And I used to wear a mask, but that didn't really help anything. I put my Dickeys on top of my clothes and before I leave each night, I turn them in to be washed. By the dryers though, where I spend half my time, it can get to be over a hundred degrees. The extra clothes don't help any as far as my sweating. That's the only real downside of diaper detail. His creation, comically named the "Boeing Bomblaster," emits a frequency so deep you'll mess your pants. But that's just the beginning. "Nobody on this planet does large-scale coordinated lethal events except us," says Pauline of his company, Survival Research Laboratories (SRL).

Founded in 1978, SRL's sole purpose is staging shows—dangerous ones. The performers are giant robots, massive cannons and assorted incendiary devices liberated from their military and industrial birthplaces and set loose just feet from the unprotected audience. This may

In fact, securing the proper papers has become such a problem that Pauline is willing to bring the show to you—for free—if you can get local lawmakers to sign off on it.

Although he loves his destructive vocation, Pauline doesn't get too philosophical about his purpose. "People like to think of it as art," he explains, "but I only call myself an artist when the police and fire department are arresting me. SRL is more of a conspiracy." (JLB)

Does pushing the door-close button in an elevator actually do anything?

Adam Schmidt,
via e-mail
It gives you something to do while waiting for the doors to close on their own. "The door-close button is built to function," reports Dilip Rangnekar, director of international media relations and communications for Otis Elevator Worldwide, "but often it doesn't respond as fast as you'd like." Most states require an extra long delay when the door-close button is pushed for safety reasons. Still, one elevator repairman admits he often doesn't even attach the button. "It's pretty much the last thing on my list," says Ron Elberson. "No one can tell anyway—they just keep pressing it."

Cell-phone service

I thought phones didn't work on jets. What's the deal?

Martin Joyce,
Ellicott City, MD
As many frequent flyers know, federal law prohibits the use of cell phones once a plane has left the gate. Of course, the Feds also prohibit owning endangered species and selling crack—but that doesn't mean it can't be done. Analog cell phones work at altitudes of 10 miles, while the newer digital ones have a maximum range of five to six miles, just short of the 35,000 feet (or 6.6 miles) at which most jets fly. The FAA has banned their use because of concerns they might interfere with the plane's navigation or communicacould overload the system, messing up reception for all the users still on the ground.

CHEVYS RAM BALLS

Gas-guzzlers spice up Europe's lamest pastime

As anyone who has ever backed into a toddler on a tricycle knows, stuff really flies when you tag it with a car. It was this principle that led W. Jay Milligan to create a new sport in which backwoods hicks ram cars into a giant ball.

"The ball weighs 200-plus pounds," Milligan says. "If you hit it hard, you'll cave your car in." Not a big deal considering that his Upstate New York company, JM Productions, recruits participants from demolition derbies, whose entrants are in it for the wreckage anyway.

Hail: enormous

"Teams score a point by pushing the ball over their opponent's goal line," Milligan explains. "After one round, the two teams with the most points go into what we call the 'Super Bowl.'" Funny, that's what the NFL calls it too.

A little name recognition can never hurt a fledgling sport though. Hell, Milligan even decided to name his new game stock-car football—despite the fact that it's very clearly played with an oversized soccer ball. "We thought about calling it stock-car soccer," the new sports guru admits. "But nobody cares about soccer." (AW)

THE LION KILLER

Grumpy hunter has bagged 241 manes

One of South Africa's fiercest hunters, Jannie Burger often angers park rangers when he massacres the lions that wander onto his property from the wild animal preserve across the road.

Had any close calls with the jungle kings? I once shot a lion,

Tarzan goosed his pet lion but although it was down, I suspected it wasn't dead. I had no more bullets, and when I realized it was still breathing, I made sure I was behind it. Right then, it swung around and swiped at me with that big paw. I could feel the wind against my cheek. How do you kill a lion when you're out of bullets? Luckily, it couldn't walk because I'd shot it in the spine. I thought, "What now?" So I got into my Land Rover and drove up to the lion. All I had was a four-pound hammer, so I pounded it to death.

Are they all gruesome? What about your 241st kill?

No, that one I shot in the shoulder. I almost missed. It would have been a shame, but my eyes aren't what they used to be.

MAN-TYHOSE!

Ohio fashion guru manufactures new nylons for men

Every guy knows that the right time to slip on a slick new pair of pantyhose is just after snuggling their girlfriend to sleep, and just before masturbating while sniffing her shoe. But not for Steve Katz. "I'm wearing pantyhose right now!" he chirps from his company's headquarters in Granville, OH.

Katz swears hunters, for example, have been wearing pantyhose for years, not just for their attractive slimming quality, but as protection against the cold. Now, thanks to Katz, those men tired of squeezing into their wives' confining undergarments finally have another option: Comfilon hosiery for men. "Women's pantyhose are by and large uncomfortable on the genitals," explains

Katz. "Ours has a front panel that actually acts as a pouch and provides support for male equipment." Plus, there's been one other modification: a built-in fly. (AW)

WORLD EXCLUSIVE! SANTA SPEAKS!

Brought to you by: TIMEX

In a rare yet timely interview, Santa Claus reveals just what makes the man behind the beard tick.

On the morning of December 24, I'll awake at 5 a.m. to the chime of my Timex i-Control® turn 'n' pull, the world's easiest-to-use analog alarm watch. Over a quick cup of joe, I make it a point to check in at the workshop. With the Timex Internet Messenger® watch, I can receive e-mail (as well as word and numeric pages) from my elves as I check up on my stocks, read the day's news headlines and keep an eye on the weather forecast for that night, thanks to the Internet Messenger's impressive Internet capabilities. Afterward, I suit up, head to the sleigh and prepare for departure.

Everyone thinks my life is all good, and don't get me wrong, it really is. The house in the North Pole is paid off, I've been happily married to the same gal for years and I employ my own team of elves to run my workshop. In the off season, I like to travel incognito, sunning in St. Bart's and skiing in Aspen, always dressed to the nines with one of my Timex® Collection fashion watches. Right now I'm wearing a stylish stainless steel Timex Chronograph watch—the hottest trend in men's fashion watches.

But believe me, I earn those vacations. I work more in one night than most people do all year long. What's the secret of my success? Constant communication, good timing and lots of hard work.

However, that's not to say that things run smoothly every year. I remember one foggy year in which Rudolph (my red-nosed reindeer, for those of you not in the know) was too sick with a stomach virus to lead the sleigh. We blamed it on the cheap diner food we had the night before, but I digress. Anyway, without my star reindeer and his luminous nose to guide me through the sky, I almost threw in the towel—until the missus pointed to my Timex Expedition® Digital Compass watch. Utilizing the latest in digital technology, Timex combines a highly precise digital compass with its famous INDIGLO® night-light. Together, these amazing features guided my way throughout the world that night as well as Rudolph's nose ever could!

The man, the myth, the legend.
For Santa Claus, timing is everything.

"His skin has a special suction effect that can help metal stick to it," explained a professor at the Universiti Teknologi Malaysia. Nonetheless, they agree there is no trickery involved in Lin's displays, which often involve the old man littering his chest with hanging spoons, hammers and weighted irons. In October, Lin also pulled a car by attaching a chain to an iron plate that was stuck naturally to his chest.

THE REBIRTH OF TIP

The rapper goes back to his roots on Kamaal the Abstract

In the early '90s, A Tribe Called Quest's laid-back sensibility and unique staccato wordplay came in sharp contrast to the more dominant West Coast gangsta rap. So fans were understandably stunned when the solo debut from Tribe front man Q-Tip seemed so far out of line. The production was tight, but the whole mentality was lost in the fray, replaced with a flashier, more marketable content. Q-Tip had become "jiggy."

Thankfully, with Kamaal the Abstract, Q-Tip doesn't just return to his old Tribe ways, he's twisted that instantly recognizable vibe around a whole new sound. Backed by his own live band, Tip (who now prefers his Muslim name, Kamaal) lays a path others will no doubt follow. Even calling it a rap album is selling it short. In fact, on half of the tracks, Kamaal steps up to the mic—and sings.

Q-Tip has twisted that instantly recognizable vibe around a new sound

"Feelin'," the first track, sees Kamaal bustin' a tale of police harassment, over one super-funky bass line. Next comes "Do U Dig U?" and the sexed-up "A Million Times." For these, Tip sings as if he's in the shower, repeating the same lines as if simply obsessed with the way his voice sounds as he says certain words. That could be annoying, but it's not. Instead, the jazzy tracks make the softly sung lyrics sound almost scat-like. The songs have little purpose, but as they set the atmosphere, it's clear we're heading for something great. That something comes in the form of "Barely in Love." The anti "Livin' on a Prayer," it chronicles two lovers trying to hold on to a love that's not quite there. Here, Tip drops any pretense of rhyming while he wails his well-planned verses.

The album's best moments, however, come when Tip finds the middle ground, singing his heart out on the hook, but rhyming the rest. This record seems to be the jumping-off point for a bigger trend; prepare to watch as rappers experiment. ★★★★ (QR)

ALBUM REVIEWS

E-dub The President MCA

Not only do his rhymes sound similar to Eminem's, they were also learned in the same place—Detroit's lyrical prizefights. Admire the stats: Dub moved so many units independently that MCA agreed to distribute Hundred Grand, the label he started. Everyone who's pulled that off in the past has gone on to greatness (check Master P and Jay-Z). And only two tracks were written before they were recorded; the rest were freestyled in the booth the way Notorious used to do. ★★★★ (SB)

Cypress Hill Stoned Raiders COLUMBIA

What would happen if Cypress Hill set the whole weed gimmick aside and wrote an album that hit on a variety of topics? The world may never know. As the title implies, the membrane is still pretty insane for Cypress Hill. Even so, Stoned Raiders is well put together. Some tracks, such as "Trouble," get you high off a potent blend of hip-hop and Filter-style new metal. The rest expand the mind with guest appearances and airtight, bagpipe-free production. ★★★★ (SB)

N.E.R.D. In Search of N.E.R.D. VIRGIN

When N.E.R.D. sent their album to reviewers several months ago, the feedback was overwhelmingly positive. So their decision to put off the release to allow time to re-record each song with a live band came as a shock. These guys have melon-sized meatballs. Luckily, their huge sacs didn't get in the way as The Neptunes (two-thirds of N.E.R.D.) went back to work. The result is a collection that fuses hip-hop, rock and R&B in a way the Dursts of the world never could. ★★★★ (QR)

Chemical Brothers Come With Us ASTRALWERKS

Ten years after introducing the world to the Big Beat "four on the floor" sound, the Brothers push the boundaries further by combining a variety of styles. On "Star Guitar," the boys take a Basement Jaxx-style bossa-nova beat and fling New Order-like guitar lines over it: an instant club hit. Beth Orton shows up for a space-girl ballad and Richard Ashcroft (from the Verve) adds his nasally two cents. Well done. ★★★★ (TS)

OutKast's funky dresser on writing theme music for pimps, having sex with aliens and becoming a teacher

You're putting out a greatest hits album. Is there any easier way to make money?

Well, I guess you could rob somebody or sell drugs; that would be easier. It was just a lot of people got onboard with Stankonia and thought it was our first album. We had to do an OutKast 101 class because people didn't know we had three other albums.

You're from Atlanta, a city known for its pimps. Have you ever met one?

Yeah, we used to record at Curtis Mayfield's old studio, and that's right in Blind Marcus once again dressed himself their neighborhood. Some of our studio engineers would be getting favors.

Are pimps a big part of your scene?

Not our scene, but when we did the BET Awards, we flew 10 or 15 down for our "So Fresh, So Clean" performance. It has become the theme music for a lot of them, so we thought it would be a good idea to let them showcase on the stage.

Did they bring their ho's with them?

No, they were trying to get new recruits.

What's it like partying with pimps?

Not too different. We do the same things, except they take it a step further. There are always women around us and some do favors. But the pimps kind of juice it. They milk it. I ain't that type of guy.

Vietnamese rice hat—all at the same time. As a kid, were you always getting your ass kicked on the playground for wearing crap like that?

Naw, I was pretty conservative. I'd wear ties to school even though I wasn't in private school, and my mom made me iron all my clothes for the whole week as soon as they came out of the dryer. I was wrinkle-free until I moved in with my dad. He said wrinkles were cool.

Do you have your own personal sweatshop to make your custom clothes?

No, but I have a couple of people who sew for me around town. I draw stuff up, then they do the rest. The best thing I did were these overall-type things with lace siding. I always thought lace was classy, especially if a dude wore it.

There are kids who know about Rosa Parks only because of your song. Are you the world's flyest-dressed history teacher?

You know, I've actually thought about being a teacher after I finish rapping. I always thought, "Hey, wouldn't it be cool if your teacher could rap?" Instead of being some old-assed rapper, I figured I might as well get a job when I'm done.

You often wear a turban. Do fans ever try to steal it off your head?

No, but some grab your crotch while you're rapping and try to pull your shit. I don't know why they do it. I guess they just want to touch. And you know how you reach down to give the people in the audience your hand or give them five? They'll try to hold on to your rings and slip the rings off your finger.

Do they ever make off with stuff?

Yes, yes, yes. I'm actually gonna write a song about it because I really hate it. We were in Germany and somebody wasn't watching the dressing room while we were onstage. I had this leopard hat made out of real leopard—it was illegal or whatever, but it was the flyest hat ever—somebody came in and stole it. Now it's a big joke around the crew. They're like, "They stole his leopard hat. That'll take his powers." Whoever finds the person with my leopard hat, kick his ass. Get the hat and there will be a reward.

Wait, rewind. Did you say it took your powers? Do you have superpowers?

Yeah, but I can't reveal those. They might try to lock me up and examine me.

What's the craziest thing that's happened on tour?

We were in Massachusetts of all places when some guys heard a ruckus coming from our room. We were just in there tripping, having a good time, but they thought it was a party and wanted to get in. We said, "No, it's not a party. We're just chilling." So we tried to close the door, but the dude pulled out his gun, stuck it through the door and fired. Shit, we closed the door on his arm, locked it and tried to jump out the window.

Did you have sex with her?

Yeah. I think it was some kind of experiment to breed a human sperm with an alien egg, to see what they come up with. I think they're trying to save their planet, because I think it's dying. They're trying to find ways to intertwine both species so they can keep their people alive.

What's alien sex like?

It's about the same. They don't moan any more than normal, but they do make a different sound. That's how you can really tell. You know how the raptors squeal in Jurassic Park? It's kind of like that. (AW)

FIVE THINGS...

...you didn't know about Mad Max

1 For almost 20 years, American audiences never heard Mel Gibson's actual performance in Mad Max because the American distributor had the role dubbed over by an actor with a twangy Western accent.

2 Mel Gibson earned just $5,000 for his lead role in the film. The $200,000 budget for the post-apocalyptic thriller was so tight that only Mel Gibson got to wear real leather. Everyone else was outfitted in vinyl.

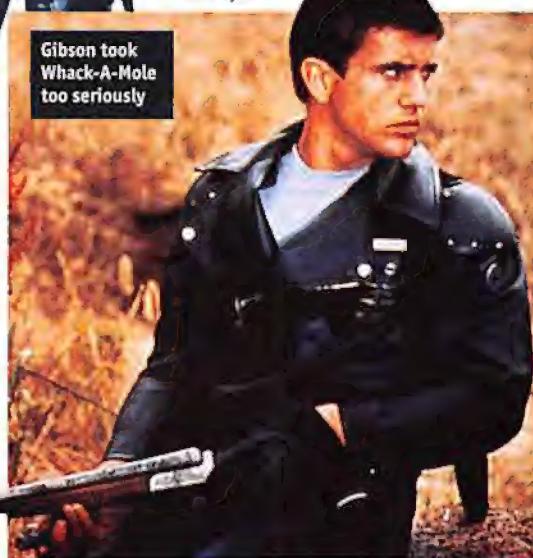

3 When writer/director George Miller dies, he'll leave the world with two lasting creations: Mad Max and Babe the Pig.

4 Although considered violent films, Max only fires his gun five times over the course of the three movies.

5 After grossing more than $100 million worldwide, the original Mad Max had the highest cost-to-profit ratio of any movie ever. That record wasn't broken until 1999, by a little film called The Blair Witch Project.

Not surprisingly, speed, big air and tricks are the key. Perform enough stunts and you'll unlock the elusive "uber trick"—land it and you are rewarded with Run DMC's "It's Tricky."	The biggest improvements to an already excellent snowboarding game include more riders, courses and moves; slicker graphics; a sick audio track (there's Aphrodite, the Plump DJs and the Beastie Boys' Mix Master Mike); and the tightest snowboarding action in gaming. Tricky is magic. ★★★★ (RP)
Motor City Online  EA PC	Go online and buy yourself a junker, spruce it up and then start collecting pink slips in street, drag and oval races. The better you get, the more cash you earn, and the better cars and parts you can buy (take your pick of muscle cars from the '30s to the '80s) from online dealers.	EA has created a virtual grease-monkey world with clubs, dealers, track owners and one-of-a-kind "Righteous Rides." Even the casual driver will be staying up late to bid on cars and compete for the rights to racing turf. Totally complete, totally addictive, almost perfect. ★★★★ (PS)
The Ultimate Ride  Disney Interactive PC	Spend hours designing the world's most abdomen-wrenching roller coaster. Then sit back and bring the pain. Or see how you match up with physics-minded coaster scientists and figure out how to beat design challenges and become a "Rollergod."	Armchair engineers will obsess over the mission mode, in which you tweak a coaster to make it runable. Or in the free-form mode, put together a coaster that would make John Glenn puke, then take it for a spin. Multiple camera angles and the ability to trade coasters with friends make for a nice ride. ★★★★ (PS)
Shrek  TDK Mediactive Xbox	Starting where the film left off, the big green guy just wants a little peace and quiet. But first, he has to travel through four worlds on 36 missions to save his smart-ass donkey friend while doing a series of good deeds for the likes of Mother Goose, Little Bo Peep and the rest.	So it's kind of a kiddie title, but with stunningly precise graphics, a great engine, 80 hours—yes, that's an eight and a zero—of game play and oh-so-cleverly, a fart for a primary weapon, there's plenty for big people to love. Shrek is a great showcase of the power of the Xbox. ★★★★ (EB)
Kabuki Warriors  Crave Entertainment Xbox	Bringing sim elements along with an adventure storyline to the fighting genre, you play a fight promoter for a team of swordsmen en route to Kyoto to challenge the renowned star troop of the city.	Besides excellent head-slashing fun, it involves team building (you trade up for better samurai on your team), and each samurai must possess the right mix of strength and style. Choose from 24 characters, dozens of weapons and many ways to have a giblets-skewering good time. ★★★★ (PS)
Wave Race: Blue Storm  Nintendo of America GameCube	Pretty much a souped up version of the N64 classic, you get to tool around on high-speed Jet Skis, racing against friends or computer players and pulling off tricks for extra points.	Expansive, lush racing worlds, detailed player and Jet Ski models, four-player support and consistent controls. Throw in ultra-realistic water physics, a cool interactive trick meter and a new turbo feature, and you've got pure racing nirvana. ★★★★ (TH)

Madden NFL 2002		Play football. Hear Madden spit nonsense. The premier gridiron title returns with more player options, game features and lifelike action.	For diehard pigskin fans or greenhorns alike, this is the game to get. The new "easy" play mode helps loads, but even more, the graphics are better and the ball physics improved—even seasoned pros will have to scramble with this season's improved artificial intelligence. ★★★★★ (TM)
Deus Ex: The Conspiracy		Who shot JFK? Are there aliens inside Area 51? Does the Illuminati truly control the world? The world may never know the answers to these three questions, but gamers will get to unravel the conspiracy behind Gray Death, a manmade disease threatening this game's futuristic Earth.	Combining stealth, adventure, role-play and strategy elements, this game is definitely the choice for players who fancy themselves cerebral assassins. As a nano-technologically augmented anti-terrorist, it's up to you to stop the conspirators behind this vile plague. ★★★★★ (RMP)
Final Fantasy X		The mac daddy of role-playing games has unleashed another masterpiece. You play Tidus, a reluctant hero with really bad hair who leads a party of adventurers on an epic quest to put an end to, predictably, sin.	What can be said other than more brilliance in a long line of brilliance. Throw in truly spectacular graphics, celebrity voiceovers and gripping game play, and you can pretty much forget about sleeping. ★★★★★ (TH)
Super Smash Bros. Melee		Like a greatest hits album for longtime fans of Nintendo's gaming worlds, Smash pits all the characters—from Donkey Kong and Mario to Zelda and Pikachu—against each other in a fighter battle royale.	Even if kiddie characters from the Nintendo universe aren't your bag, having them pummel each other in lush 3-D worlds certainly has its appeal. While not all the characters date back to the old-school days, you'll get satisfaction kicking the newcomers in the Poké Balls. ★★★★★ (EB)
Splashdown		Discover the fun of watersports as you race your way through 18 courses either in career mode, arcade-style or against a friend. There are dozens of tricks to pull and even an ALOD feature (automatic level of difficulty), which adjusts the game's difficulty according to your skill.	A nice blend of realistic physics and arcade-style freedom make the controls easy to pick up, but a challenge to master. Playing the game is as thrilling as any land-based driving title, but you may find yourself mesmerized by the water effects and dreaming of a better life. ★★★★★ (RMP)
Ico		In this medieval Japanese adventure game, one unfortunate child of every generation is born with a set of horns—and then sacrificed in a haunted castle at age 12. As the unfortunate Ico, you must rescue a doomed princess, then escape with her, before the evil queen gets to you.	One of the most fully realized and beautiful games ever produced (you may find yourself welling up). Ico is the high water mark of electronic gaming. From the original game play and plot to the masterfully rendered sets, audio effects and camera angles, it's all in there. ★★★★★ (JC)

GAMBLING

QUIT PICKING LOSERS!

Pro handicapper Big Al McMordie slips football bettors the secrets behind his 57 percent success rate

Shop around

Sports books charge a 10 percent fee any time you lose a bet, which means a guy has to win roughly 52 percent of his wagers to make money over a sustained period of time. Internet sports books are helpful because they allow you to shop around for the best point spreads. Each half point you gain increases your win percentage by 1.75 percent.

Rookie mistake

Novice guys love to bet on road favorites because they're betting on a quality team that is favored on the road, and they don't have to lay a lot of points. They're stepping into a sucker's bet because novices fail to realize that home-field advantage is a major factor in NFL games. Since 1990, home teams have won 60 percent of the time.

An easy filter

Never bet on a team that just won and covered the point spread when they're pitted against a team coming off a loss and a no-cover. The winning percentage is 54.35 percent in the NFL since 1980.

Playoff tip

Bet on a playoff team that is favored this year and lost as a favorite in their first-round playoff game last year. This year, that could include Tampa Bay, Indianapolis and St. Louis. This rule has given an outrageous win rate of 24-5 over the past 20 years. (BJ)

SUCKER'S BET

What It Is A bookie spots you six extra points on two spreads in a two-team teaser. The catch is that both of your teams have to cover for you to break even. For example: Earlier this season, Philadelphia was favored over Dallas by 14 points, and San Diego was favored over Cincinnati by seven. If you wanted to bet a teaser on Dallas and San Diego, the

Wanna lose money? Bet last week's paycheck on a two-team teaser book teased the Dallas spread up to 20 and San Diego down to one. Why It Sucks Many NFL games have lopsided outcomes, meaning six extra points often won't help. In the example, San Diego thrashed Cincinnati, but Dallas lost by 22. Had you bet $100 on the teaser, you'd be down $100. Had you just bet $50 on each game, you'd essentially be even.

WORRIES

BETTOR'S FAQ

Is it legal?

US laws are still a bit hazy, because the online sites operate from other countries. But most lawyers agree that if the government does crack down, it won't target individual bettors.

Is my money safe?

Yes, assuming you use a reputable sports book. Try one reviewed to the right or vetted by the Internet Gaming Commission (www.internetcommission.com).

How do I get my winnings?

To start gambling, you'll need to open an account with an initial deposit. All your wagers get drawn from and credited to that account, and withdrawals are either credited back to your credit card or sent as a check.

The site requires $100 to start the action, with a minimum bet of $10. Telephone accounts are also available, but as they require $300 and a $50 minimum bet, they're off limits to chumps who think a roll of quarters is a serious wager. **★★★

www.bodog.com This clean, low-hassle book works well for the not-so-rich. A mere $50 gets you going while frequent sweepstakes and cash bonuses can keep you afloat. Granted, the site's design doesn't boast the flash or swagger of its bigger competitors. But then you deserve neither flash nor swagger if you can only manage to put up 50 bucks during the playoffs. **★★★

Bill, an experienced sky-diver, is getting ready for a jump when he spots another sky-diver wearing dark glasses and holding a guide dog on a very long leash.

Shocked that a blind man is going to jump, Bill strikes up a conversation with him, expressing admiration for his courage. "I'm sorry, I have to ask," Bill eventually inquires, "how do you know when the ground is getting close?"

"That's easy," replies the blind man. "The leash goes slack."

A young couple meets with their priest about their upcoming wedding. When he asks whether they prefer a contemporary or a traditional service, they opt for the contemporary.

On the big day, a major storm hits as the groom is walking to the church. The streets are flooded, so he rolls his pant legs up to his knees to keep his trousers dry. He finally reaches the church and is standing at the altar, breathless, just as the ceremony is about to begin. The priest leans toward him and whispers, "Pull down your pants."

"Uh, Father, I've changed my mind," the groom responds. "I think I would prefer the traditional service."

FHM JOKE OF THE MONTH

A man is cruising along a country road when he is pulled over by a cop who was lurking just after a bridge. The man pulls over to the side of the road, cursing. "What's the hurry?" the cop asks smugly.

"I've got a work emergency," the man replies. "I'm in a big hurry."

"Oh, yeah?" says the cop. "What exactly do you do?"

"I'm a rectum stretcher," he replies.

"A rectum stretcher?" the cop asks suspiciously. "What the hell is that?"

"Well," explains the man, "I take a patient and put a small stretching device in his rectum and leave it there for three weeks. Then I take it out and put in a larger stretching device, which I again leave in for three weeks. I do this four times, until finally I put in the largest stretching device I have, and leave it in until the patient has a six-foot asshole."

"What the hell do you do with a six-foot asshole?" the cop asks.

"Well, usually they put him at the end of a bridge with a radar gun."

"No," says the doctor. "But it cured her hiccups."

Two strangers are having a painfully slow round of golf because the two ladies in front of them manage to hit into every bunker, water hazard and piece of rough on the course, and never wave the men through. After two hours, one man says, "I'm asking those girls to let us play through." He walks out to the fairway, gets halfway to the ladies, stops, turns around and comes back. "I can't do it," he says. "One of those women is my wife and the other is my mistress! You go."

So the second man walks toward the ladies, gets halfway there and, just as his partner had done, stops, turns around and walks back. Smiling sheepishly he says, "Small world."

ARNOLD SCHWARZENEGGER

The action-movie muscle man on lifting cars, racing tanks and skiing like Sonny Bono

In your new movie Collateral Damage you play a fireman whose family is killed by a terrorist attack in LA. In light of the events of September 11, you decided not to release the movie on October 5 as planned. What are your feelings on the movie now?

Well, the day of the attack we immediately decided to postpone the release. I met with the producers, the studio and the director and we all agreed it was time to think about those who lost their lives, celebrate the heroes and let the country heal—not worry about our movie.

Why did you decide to release the movie in early 2002?

While we were confident we did the right thing by holding the movie and pushing it into 2002, we were equally as confident this movie had a relevant place—even after September 11—and audiences would want to see it. I also knew it would be the audience who would let us know when that time would be. America wants to see good prevail over evil—both on and off the screen—and Collateral Damage delivers this with all the action, suspense, drama and stunts the fans expect.

What's Terminator 3 going to deliver?

Rumor has it Shaquille O'Neil is pining for a role.

It's all he ever talks about! He came to this event where I got an award, and the first thing he said, imitating my voice, was "Aaaarnold, I'm reeeeady for Terminator 3."

So are you going to give him a role?

The next Terminator that comes back is going to be female, so the question is what kind of part will he play in that scheme. We'd want to give him a more prestigious role than a one-day job.

By FHM's count, you've killed 446 people onscreen. Do you have a gruesome favorite?

Back in the '80s, there was a competition among action stars to see who could wipe out more people and who could use more powerful guns. We went from M-16s to heavier machine guns to machine guns that were used on helicopters. Then it became missile launchers from tanks and then aircraft-carrier guns and on

Q What's the worst fall you've taken while skiing?
A I've taken such bad falls, any normal human being would be dead.

and on. It was totally out of control. What did you make of the Guinness Book of World Records calling you "the most perfectly developed man in the history of the world"?

I loved it. It's great. I remember when I was bodybuilding, Cosmopolitan magazine did a story about the most spectacular body parts and they had my biceps and Muhammad Ali's fists. How many buildings in your homeland of Austria are named after you?

Well, there's a stadium in my hometown of Graz, and there's a ski run in Sun Valley, ID, that's named after me. The ski run was my 54th birthday gift. My wife had the name changed. It used to be called the Flying Mate, and now it's called Arnold's Run.

What's the worst fall you've taken while skiing?

I've taken such bad falls that any normal human being would be dead. This one time, I was racing a friend, we were both in a tuck, and I looked over at him and he had stopped. I'm still going and thinking he's slowing down. All of a sudden, I realized I was airborne. I had just gone over a drop-off leading into a double-diamond mogul run. It was the most violent crash. I ripped off my skis and my boots. I had to look for my boots in bare feet. That fall took place right before going to Mexico to shoot Total Recall. I showed up with huge bruises on my arms and legs and under my ribs.

What was the worst accident you've had on a movie set?

In True Lies, I was on top of a hotel, riding a horse, and the horse almost fell off the building. The camera arm came crashing down in front of the horse's face, at the edge of the building. The horse flipped out. If I hadn't used a trick I learned in the Conan movies—never have your feet in the stirrups—I'd have gone over. The horse ended up halfway off the building.

Anything else?

In The 6th Day, there was that diving sequence that was shot in this huge tank. I was underwater and got disoriented and I came up in the wrong place. The tank was covered, so I came up against a ceiling. I had no idea where I was. I went six or eight feet in one direction only to find more ceiling. Finally, I saw a hand and swam for it. Jerry Lucas—my stunt double—dragged me out of the tank.

Will we see Arnold Schwarzenegger as governor of California one day?

My plans right now are to keep working with the Special Olympics and the Inner-City Games. I'll continue campaigning for after-school programs; I think our kids really need that. What will happen after I'm finished with my commitments to Terminator 3 and True Lies 2? I don't know, but it would be then that I'd think about running.

What's the story with your tank?

Are you talking about my body or my real tank?

Umm . . . the real tank.

Well, I drove a tank in the Austrian army, and a few years ago, I decided to see if I could locate it. We found it buried on the Hungarian border. They had buried all their old tanks with the tower and the cannon stuck out from the ground, so if there was an invasion, they could use them as part of their defense. I was over there and I talked to the Austrian Secretary of Defense, and he figured out which one was mine. They were American tanks on loan to Austria, so it had to be approved by the US as well. They shipped it over and it's now in a museum in Groveport, OH. So when I'm there, I go racing around in my tank.

In Commando, you carry a tree trunk on your shoulder. Have you ever lifted up a car to save a baby or anything?

Not to save a baby, but we used to lift up cars; it was part of our strongman act. Lift up cars, bend iron bars, carry refrigerators, stuff like that.

Finally, what do you do when people ask you to say, "I'll be back?"

That happens to me all the time. They also ask for "Hasta la vista, baby," "I lied" and "Stick around." If they come up and are a complete schmuck about it, I don't say it. But if they are polite, then they get, "I'll be back!"

DJ QUALLS

HAS DREAMS OF MUTILATION EXPLOITS HIS CANCER
WANTS TO STAB JAMES LIPTON

BY JIMMY JELLINEK

PHOTOGRAPHY BY BRAD HINES

It's 3 p.m. and DJ Qualls is half asleep. He is working off another hangover from a month-long bender in Tennessee. He had come home to relax and escape the nonstop party that is Hollywood, but instead, the 23-year-old Road Trip star has been tearing it up redneck-style. His small town, which he insists FHM keep secret, doesn't inspire much else. Home to a casket factory and a pajama factory where Qualls once cut cloth, it's a dead-end kind of place where kids sip moonshine from their grandpappy's still and fight each other in the Arby's parking lot. But not Qualls. He was a theater kid. (Yes, he got picked on—a lot.) And because of his frail looks, he was always forced to play either old men or retard. "I never got laid," he confesses. But salvation came in the form of college. Wanting to get as far from the South as possible, Qualls

For a small fee,
Miss Cleo also made house calls enrolled at the University of London. And as a pasty, frail, strange-looking kid, Qualls fit right in.

After college, Qualls clerked at a Nashville law firm and was discovered while acting at the community theater. He was taken to an open casting call for a play he describes as "a sequel to Roots" and was cast as a semi-retarded racist. By this time, he'd developed a method. "I just act like a child," he says. "I don't drool or anything." Then came Road Trip, a movie that became "an Animal House for our generation." Frat boys now stop him in the street to give him props, or to ask, "How many times did you screw that fat chick?"

BECAUSE OF HIS FRAIL LOOKS, QUALLS WAS

OLD MEN OR RETARDS

Best friends with Joshua Jackson in Dawson's Creek and a major player in young Hollywood, Qualls sips coffee with James King and boasts that he's been around in the '80s, he "dated" Blair from The Facts of Life, and he's had five movies coming out.

including roles in February's The New Guy as well as Lone Star State of Mind with the aforementioned King. Qualls is pretty much living the good life. Like a high school loser's dream come true, his life is the one that every nerd's mother promises her son. "If somebody had told me 10 years ago that I'd be hanging out with supermodels, I would've killed myself because I wouldn't have been able to wait."

Were you bullied in high school?

Yeah, by a guy named Steve, who I will name because he was such an asshole to me all during high school. He rode me like you would not believe. I just have the need to go find him and just say to him, "I make more in one day than you make in an entire year." I'm obsessed with him. I ask people all the time, "Do you know Steve Parsley? What's he doing?"

Had you not become famous, do you think you might have found yourself doing time somewhere for going after him with a crossbow possibly?

THE GIRL WAS REALLY TIMID. YOU COULD TELL THAT SHE WASN'T RIDING ME THE RIGHT WAY

Oh, I'm so sure I would've. Subconsciously, that's why I watch those murder shows, to find out what would happen if I just killed him, like how I would get my prints off his body. But I wouldn't just kill him. I'd mutilate him. I'd put his head on a stick and stuff his balls in his mouth.

In your new movie, you play a teenage delinquent. Were you a problem child in school?

I was the best. I had cancer. If I was going to have cancer, I was going to use that. If I didn't want to take a test, I'd say I was too sick—"You're going to have to give it to me, and I'll take it home"—and I would copy right out of the book. Or I'd just leave class, go get a hamburger and come back. When they'd ask me where I was, I'd tell them that I was throwing up in the bathroom.

Did you gain a level of celebrity around town? Were you "Cancer Boy"?

Everybody knew who I was. Even now I like it. This is kind of shady, but when Road Trip came out, I saw it and I hated it. I thought I was going to get made fun of. So my first big interview was with People magazine and they were like, "Tell us a little bit about yourself." So I said, "I had cancer." Nobody could review it poorly or review me poorly. You'd be an asshole if you said bad shit about me, because I had cancer. So I got great reviews and was called the comedic find of the year.

Cops struggled to fill the Slipknot lineup

So the success of Road Trip was because of you, not because people wanted a peek at the tasty Amy Smart?

It's all about Amy Smart's breasts. I remember the day she shot that, she called me on the phone worried about the fact that she had taken her top off. I was like, "Oh, Amy." But I couldn't be that sympathetic, because while I was talking to her, I was masturbating to Celebrity Skin and I knew I'd be doing it to her in Celebrity Skin eventually. Since you scored big black booty in that movie, do large black women think they have a chance with you?

All the time! I was at the mall in Santa Monica and these two huge black women were coming up the escalator as I was going down. They were like,

Qualls relentlessly practiced the "Curly block"

"It's him! It's him! It's him!" And the lady yelled to me, "You're my vanilla Popsicle dream!"

Is it true that while choreographing your love scene, director Todd Phillips didn't like how you were being mounted, so he climbed on top to demonstrate how it should be done?

Yeah, and he was wearing sweatpants and no underwear. The girl was really timid. She works on Ricki Lake and she had never done a film before. And she wasn't riding me the right way. So you could tell that we weren't really doing it. Todd was like, "No, no, no, get off, get off, get off." So he showed her what to do. And I'm only wearing underwear and he's only wearing sweatpants. We had a layer of sweatpants between us.

What's the worst road trip you've ever been on?

When I was a senior in high school, we took a trip to Graceland. It was five guys in this huge truck. We're thinking we're badasses, we may get tattoos, we don't know what we're going to do. And like literally three exits down from my house, we stopped to get gas and they shut my hand in the door of the truck and broke my hand. I'll be honest with you, you feel really sick when you break a bone. I pissed myself a little bit. So I went to Graceland with pissed pants and a broken hand.

Is it true that you have a severe The Price Is Right addiction?

Like you wouldn't believe. I want to be on that show so bad.

Would you kiss Bob Barker like contestants often do?

No, I would not be kissing Bob Barker. I don't really like to kiss old men. But old men hit on me a lot. I'm small. I'm not the most masculine man in the world. I was in the lobby of the Four Seasons and this old man at the bar was making eyes at me. I couldn't believe it. I was sitting with two girls. I was like, "What would make you think that I would go into the bathroom with you and do stuff?" He looked at me and I looked back at him, we locked eyes and I was like, "Oh, my God—I know that look."

Have you experienced that quintessential Hollywood moment yet when you've been surrounded by vice and sin, and said, "Lord, I've arrived?" We had a big Hollywood wrap party in Austin, TX. There were 20 of us in this tiny limousine driving around Austin, paying people off to get our party in the door. We spent $5,000 that night, which is a lot of money in Austin. We went to a strip joint and had like 76 kamikaze shots among the group. It was a huge night of excess and I saw cocaine for the first time. I was like "What a fucking '80s glam drug, E! True Hollywood Story, man." I did ecstasy for the first time that night. I just remember looking at myself in the mirror, going, "I can't believe it's 9:30 in the morning. I've been drinking since yesterday, but I don't look broke down. I look totally fine." And so we went up to somebody else's room, we mixed everything from their mini bar into this huge mixing bowl, then we passed it around and drank it. And then I passed out.

What's the best rumor that you've heard about yourself?

There was this big Internet thing about how big my package was in the love scene. Some people said I was erect, some people said I wasn't. When you typed my name in, you went to a gay porn site with a picture of me with a caption that said, "He has a package that UPS wouldn't deliver for under $100." I think my unit looks big on me because I'm thin. Just like a midget. We have this midget in The New Guy who plays the tuba. We were at a party one night and this girl asked to see his member and he pulled it out. I didn't see it because I wasn't in the room, but she told me that it looked huge on him.

What question would you most like to be asked by James Lipton on Inside the Actors Studio?

On my tombstone it will say, "Never appeared on Inside the Actors Studio with James Lipton." He stinks of failed actor. It makes me nauseous. I hate him. I hate him with all my being. I'll watch Judge Joe Brown before I watch anything he does. I hate him so much. I want to stab him to death with a pencil. FHM

SHAME ON YOU!

You've been warned a thousand times and still you think that pinching her nipples gets her hot. FHM went to the source to find out what really works

FOREPLAY

Not just two words associated with the game of golf, but also a vital preliminary to getting your plums emptied. Master this little selection of smart moves and you'll reap the benefit of wild and outlandish sex. Stay a fumbler and you have no one to blame but yourself. And pornos!

◆ I love it when a man rubs me through my clothes. He doesn't have to do it hard: It's the tease of it rather than the feel.

Suzanne, 27, bookstore manager

◆ One guy kept losing his erection, and to get it back, he whirled Mr. Happy and slapped it against his hand. It was such a turnoff. I found out later from his friends that he called this his "chopper squad."

Hayley, 24, office manager

◆ When my boyfriend starts sucking my nipples, I think, "OK, you enjoy yourself. I'll wait." He obviously gets more pleasure from it than I do.

Elaine, 30, college professor

• If you're home alone, how likely are you to pleasure yourself?

When girls are flirty after a drink, they mean it. It's the next morning that they don't

TURN-ONS

Think that all she needs to get her private parts juiced up is a tug at her melons and a love bite? Well, take a gander at these tales of gratitude—and make sure you remember them next time you get lucky.

◆ The most turned on I've ever been was when I had picked up a guy and he kept telling me in detail what he was going to do when he got me home. Ready for the promised performance, we bolted it back to his place and he definitely lived up to expectations. I think because he got me going before we even started screwing, I was ready to get it on.

Clare, 22, garden nursery assistant

• Do you feel ruder and more kinky when you're drunk?

86% Yes

◆ I love a guy who's prepared to go down on me—whatever, whenever, wherever! I really like animal instinct sex—the ripping clothes off, rough kissing and general "can't wait to get it in" back-scratching kind of sex.

The best guy I had sex with just got out of a five-year relationship. He had time to learn

TECHNIQUE

Even if you get her into bed, there are still plenty of ways to mess things up. So if you're about as skillful as Jerry Lewis on a fistful of Percodan, bear these tips in mind next time oats are on the menu.

Don't pinch and twist our bits as if they're car parts. Caress our nipples, don't ping them; stroke us, don't wring us out like old rags. Be confident, be happy to initiate, be selfless—don't just think about your own goal. Use eye contact; tell us that we're sexy.

Tamsin, 26, restaurant manager

• The secret to coming together? That's easy: timing, familiarity and the words

"I'm...going...to...come!"
Annie, 27, hairdresser

• The best guy I had sex with just got out of a five-year relationship, meaning he'd had plenty of time to learn. He did this great thing with his lower stomach, sort of pressing it and rubbing it around down below while thrusting slowly but surely. I orgasmed every time—it was fantastic.

Karen, 25, designer

Don't pinch and twist our bits as if they're car parts

FANTASIES

So long as they don't involve journeys into outer space or hiring Brad Pitt as a "stunt cock," there's a fair chance you could make your girlfriend's hottest sex dreams come true. And here's how grateful she'll be afterward.

• A few years ago, I was pretty naive, so when a guy from my drama club invited me back for a coffee, I went. I ended up sleeping with him, and he was a complete bondage freak. I was tied up, smacked silly and called a bitch. It's hysterical now, but then I was quite disturbed.

Steph, 21, dancer

• My boyfriend talked me into dressing up as a nurse for him. At first, I was dreading it and feeling disgusting. But when we did it, I felt so naughty that we had the best sex ever. I think when you actually do something you didn't think you'd dare to, it's the biggest turn-on possible.

Hannah, 23, administrative assistant

TURNOFFS

Bad breath, unwashed taints and a fiddling technique more suited to the manipulation of a contact lens—all these will score you zero points with the ladies.

• I was once at it with a guy when I made a very embarrassing noise down there. Only natural, I know, but highly mortifying all the same. So when he decided to comment on it, I just wanted to die. If this happens to your girl, ignore it and carry on.

Steph, 21, dancer

Q If your boyfriend brought home a woman, would you sleep with her?

14% Yes

• I once went down to give a guy a blowjob and he smelled so bad I just couldn't do it. Would you want something that smelly in your mouth?

Ellen, 21, researcher

• I know they say there are buttons to turn a girl on, but that does not mean stick your finger in and poke it around. You're not a vet, and we're not furry animals. Stroke, don't poke, OK?

Fay, 21, student

DISASTERS

Far from a walk in the park, the path of true love sometimes has dangerous curves and even accidents.

• One guy, God knows what he was doing to manage this, but he came in my eye. I was temporarily blinded.

Steph, 21, dancer

• I scraped my knee on a bed frame during a heated session once. We were going at it when it happened, but I was enjoying myself so much that I didn't realize it at first. Then I felt the pain and I started screaming. Of course, the guy didn't stop—he just assumed I thought he was really good. The pouring blood eventually gave it away.

Eve, 22, PR executive

Q Is it really so bad swallowing?

69%

Yes

• I was giving a guy a blowjob once and my jaw locked. Not completely shut, but in order for him to get it out, I had to take some skin with me. I was still living at home at the time and I had to explain to my mother why I was in such a mess when I got home.

Steph, 21, dancer

Girth is more important than length

MALE ORGANS

Like a lazy eye or a kite without a string, your old fella is not without its quirks or pitiful disasters.

• Girth is more important than length. On a vacation once, a hunky bartender asked if he could take a quick shower in my room. I said yes, and when he came out of the bathroom, he was wearing just a towel, from which protruded what I can only describe as an oar! I split.

Megan, 25, cosmetics saleswoman

• A friend of mine gave this guy a blowjob, and while she was down there she thought it was a bit, well, skanky. Still, the stupid girl carried on and did the business. The next day, however, she woke up looking like a hamster. She got a mouth infection from the STD he had.

Tamsin, 26, restaurant manager

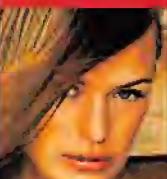

• I went out with a guy who had such a big one that he had to send away for extra-strong condoms from the back of gay magazines. And even they split.

Annie, 27, hairdresser

Q Have you ever laughed at a lover's "come face"?

52%

Yes

When I howl like a dog, it's for real. I couldn't shut up if I tried

TABOOS

Making love in only the missionary position might please God, but it'll probably bore your lady friend to death.

• The first time I had backdoor sex, I was drunk and it was much better than I'd expected. But when I tried it sober, it was completely different. I'll only do it if I'm smashed! The annoying thing is my boyfriend thinks this means I secretly prefer it to vaginal, but I'm too inhibited to admit it. He's always fiddling with my butt during normal sex and I hate it.

Nicola, 29, teacher

• One of my favorite things is having my hands tied behind my back. It hasn't always worked though. One guy who tied me up tried to act domineering. He kept slapping my ass and saying things like "Suck my stuff, slave. Come on, you know you want it." It was awful.

Louise, 28, editorial assistant

• A few months ago, I invented my own sex toy, and I'm still addicted to it. I probe myself with a roll-on deodorant while moving my electric toothbrush against myself down there. My boyfriend has no idea I do this.

Kate, 26, administrative assistant true. I don't squirt, but I "flood." No one is ever shocked, because they've all been alerted ahead of time. I think if I ever had sex with a guy who hadn't been clued in, he'd just think he was a big stud because I got so wet.

Lori, 29, freelance writer

• Men always think that cunnilingus is best when they apply a lot of pressure and are really rough and extreme. Actually, it's better when they're really soft. One time, my boyfriend was going down on me too roughly, so I pushed his head. I guess I pushed really hard because he fell off the bed.

Isabell, 25, graduate student

• When I howl like a dog, it's for real. I couldn't shut up if I tried. And I have tried. I'm going to have to buy cork for my walls.

• What's up with guys always wanting to come on girls' breasts? Guys are always wanting to come on mine. I think it's so primitive and uncivilized. It's like they're apes. Or dogs marking their territories.

SEX MYTHS

Does dork size matter? Can women ejaculate? Is it easy to spot a fake orgasm? The truth behind these ornery old sex myths.

• I had one guy who was a comedian, but the funny thing about him was how small he was. He told me how great he was in bed, so I took him home, and I couldn't believe how tiny it was. I couldn't feel a thing.

Mary, 29, nurse

• If it's just small, it's fine, but small, drippy and crooked—those three together are bad. One guy I dated had one like that. I didn't care too much about it being small and crooked, but when it got drippy at random, I had to draw the line.

Isabell, 25, graduate student

• When I cheated on my boyfriend, I put up 42 photos of him around my bed. He always thought that I'd never bring anyone home because his territory was so marked. But in reality, I threw orgies.

Diane, 31, publicist

• Female ejaculation—sure, it is

BLOODY STANDOFF!

Andrew McCord called 911 at 8:47:28 p.m. on Friday, March 17, 2000. He said a man with a gun was banging furiously on his door, demanding to be let in. He added that it was Joseph Palczynski.

If talk of a man lurking around with a gun wasn't enough to electrify the nervous system of Baltimore's police, the name Palczynski was. Ten days earlier, a heavily armed Joseph Palczynski had burst into the apartment where his terrified ex-girlfriend, Tracy Whitehead, had been hiding. After shooting to death, execution-style, the three friends who had gathered there to protect her, Palczynski kidnapped Tracy, raped her and repeatedly told her he would kill her. She managed to escape by running to a police car near their motel. But then he went on a rampage, killing one woman during an attempted carjacking, and kidnapping a man and forcing his victim to drive him around for almost 12 hours, before releasing him unharmed.

During that week, every police officer in Baltimore County and the surrounding areas had been asked to look for Palczynski. And now he was banging on the door of the apartment that Andrew McCord shared with Lynn

Palczynski held hostages here for 96 hours

Gunfire in house at hostage scene

One shot was fired Monday inside the house where a suspected killer has been holding three people hostage for a fourth day; a police spokesman said he doesn't know what happened inside the house. Brad McCord said, "We don't know if anyone has been hurt inside. We have just had this one shot." Police on a loud-speaker could be heard urging Joseph Palczynski, suspected in four killings and the kidnapping of his ex-girlfriend earlier this month, to allow them to bring in an ambulance in case someone was hurt. Earlier Monday, shots were fired from the windows of the house in this Baltimore suburb when an armed police negotiator with a shotgun moved closer to the door to urge Palczynski to pick up the phone and resume negotiations.

shooting," McCord yelled into the phone. "Hurry up!" Then the line went dead.

Three minutes later, another 911 call came. This time, a subdued Lynn Whitehead spoke to the operator. "Joey Palczynski has me at gunpoint," she said. "He wants to talk to my daughter or he is going to hurt me." Whitehead

I'VE GOT MISS LYNN IN

DOOR. IF ANYONE COMES IN, SHE GETS SHOT FIRST

handed the phone to Palczynski, who said, "I've got Miss Lynn in my arms at the front door. If anyone comes in, she gets shot first." Before he hung up, Palczynski could be heard saying to his youngest hostage, "Don't cry, Brad."

Inside the house, McCord, Whitehead and their son began to realize the depth of the danger they were in. Palczynski had brought not just the .357 Magnum he had used to blast their front door off its hinges, but a 12-gauge shotgun, a .22-caliber hunting rifle and more than 200 rounds of ammunition. Outside, police began surrounding 7502 Lange Street, in the Dundalk section of Whitehead, Tracy's mother, and the couple's 12-year-old son, Bradley.

While Andrew McCord was still speaking to the 911 operator, the sound of gunshots rang out in the background. McCord, now frantic, explained that Palczynski was forcing his way in. "He's

Palczynski killed four people one week prior to

Baltimore. Palczynski taunted them, yelling out the window, "You guys are some sorry shit, man. Two hundred men against one." He emphasized his point by firing out the window every few minutes. Police evacuated nearby homes as hostage negotiators and the SWAT team arrived. Although the drama would drag on for almost four days, in one sense, the outcome was decided in the first few minutes. Given the four murders Palczynski had already committed, plus his history of mental illness and his agitated state, police weren't going to take any chances. Although Palczynski would be given every chance to surrender, police snipers were told to shoot to kill if the opportunity presented itself.

As soon as a phone hookup could be established between the house and the police command post, Palczynski made his demand: Bring Tracy here and I'll give you the hostages in exchange for her. While negotiators were too diplomatic to refuse outright, both sides knew this wasn't going to happen. So Palczynski had a backup demand that would become his mantra for the next

► The Giacomo family of Venice, Italy, is afflicted with fatal familial insomnia, a rare affliction that causes the brain to never rest. Virtually all of those in the family who carry the gene stop sleeping at the age of 50. Awake for months, even years, they eventually die from sheer exhaustion. One in 33 million people carry this brain disorder, but since the turn of the century, at least 30 of the Giacomas' descendants have died this way, 13 since 1973 and seven in the past decade.

• In 1964, Randy Gardner, a 17-year-old high school student in San Diego, CA, set the world record for sleeplessness when he stayed awake for 11 straight days. And on the final night of his "awakathon," Gardner beat sleep research observers 100 times at pinball. He then slept 15 hours and awoke feeling fine.

Md. standoff continues

'Don't hurt no more people,' grandmother tells suspect

96 hours: Just put her on the phone. But police psychologists were sure what was behind this. "We were predicting that once he had Tracy on the phone, he'd kill her mother while she listened and tell her it was her fault," explains Baltimore County Police spokesman Bill Toohey. "To someone in his frame of mind, that would be the next best thing to killing the woman he wanted to hurt."

So police invented dozens of reasons why they couldn't bring Tracy Whitehead to the phone right now, but promised Palczynski that he'd be speaking to her very soon. In the meantime, they tried to get him to talk about why he was there and to accept some other concession, like food, books or videos. They also brought Palczynski's mother, Patricia Long, to the phone. While she succeeded in calming him down a bit, Palczynski never let more than an hour or two pass without reminding police of his non-negotiable bottom line: If they didn't bring Tracy to the phone, he'd kill all three hostages. Police didn't doubt he meant what he said. In anticipation of having to storm the house, the cops quietly began taking down the chain-link fence surrounding the property. They obtained floor plans of the house, and observers with high-powered binoculars were posted at snipers' nests to track movement inside the house.

That first evening ended in a stalemate. Palczynski had neither budged in his demands nor presented police with a clear shot at him. He also never came close enough to killing the hostages for police to storm the house.

On Sunday, he seemed calmer but no less menacing. "Sunday afternoon," Andrew McCord recalls, "he told me,

A robot was used to deliver other demands: food, books and videos

"Andy, I don't have nothing against you and Brad, but I'm going to have to kill Lynn because she's Tracy's mother." By Monday evening, the hostages had settled into a macabre routine. Palczynski would spend the morning and afternoon in a state of dangerous excitement, threatening to kill them, firing his gun into the furniture and screaming into the phone about how Tracy Whitehead deserved to die. By late afternoon, exhaustion would kick in and he'd lapse into a stupor. During the evening, he'd become profoundly depressed, crying to Lynn Whitehead about how he had loved Tracy and how much she had hurt him.

That evening, McCord and Lynn Whitehead came up with a plan. In the house was a bottle of Xanax, a prescription anti-anxiety drug, one side effect of which is drowsiness. And Palczynski was already a bit drowsy. If they could get the Xanax into something he would eat or drink, he might slip into a deep sleep. But as Palczynski calmed down for the evening, they let themselves believe that the end of the ordeal was in sight and became convinced that the risk of trying to drug their captor and escape was too great.

"Tuesday was the worst day," Andrew

The standoff stretched into its fourth day

MODERN HORROR

McCord recalls. "He was insane, screaming for hours at a time, pointing the pistol at our heads." On Tuesday afternoon, Palczynski put each of them on the phone, and as Lynn Whitehead recalls, "made us plead with the police to let him speak to Tracy. The gun was pointed in my ear and he kept clicking the safety on and off."

As Tuesday evening drew to a close, Palczynski made a very matter-of-fact announcement. "He said he was going to kill us all the next day," Whitehead says. "He didn't sound angry and he didn't sound like he was trying to scare us. He just said the time had come for this thing to end. And I believed him."

This stirred Whitehead and McCord to action. The plan they had backed out of the previous night, to spike Palczynski's drink with Xanax, was resurrected. As Whitehead prepared dinner, she ground several of the pills and mixed them with the iced tea Palczynski had ordered. Outside, police negotiators had also noticed the change in Palczynski's tone. They realized that he was preparing himself to die and that this likely meant he'd take the hostages with him. The worst-case plan they had drawn up in the first hours of the crisis, to assault the house in force, would have to be implemented that night. They set 10:30 p.m. as the tentative time to begin the assault.

Then, less than 10 minutes before the SWAT team was scheduled to assault the house, snipers spotted activity at the front window. An adult was leaning out. Female. No weapons visible. Then she climbed out and gestured to police not to shoot or make any noise. Lynn Whitehead was escaping. And McCord was right behind her. SWAT team members grabbed her. After being checked for injuries and weapons (in a hostage siege, police never assume they know who the villains and the victims are), she was hustled over to the command post, where she explained about the Xanax.

"We waited until he had been asleep for about 20 minutes," Lynn Whitehead recalls. "A couple of times in the first day or so he had pretended to be asleep, to see what we would do. So we had to be sure." Police quickly decided this was their best chance. Palczynski was unconscious, but there was no way to know how long he would be out. And if he woke up and realized that two of his hostages had escaped, it was almost certain that he would kill the child still inside.

A team of six officers took up position around the house. Two explosive specialists would place shape charges on the front door, which Palczynski had propped back up in its frame and barricaded with furniture. Two tactical officers, wearing body armor, would race through the open door frame after the charges had been detonated, find Bradley McCord and shield his body with their own. And two heavy-weapons specialists would ascend ladders to the window through which McCord and Whitehead had escaped. From there, they'd have a clear shot at Palczynski and could cover their officers searching for Bradley. As the explosives team placed their charges at the door, officers Frank Barile and Robert Jones ascended the ladders. The shape charges were set. There was a moment of silence as the team leader confirmed everyone was in position. Then the radios in each officer's ear crackled with the word "Go!"

A blinding flash of light and a clap of thunder enveloped the front of the house as the door was reduced to splinters. In a single motion, the two tactical officers swept through the door as Barile and Jones poked their heads over the windowsill and spotted Palczynski lying on the couch with a black metallic object in his right hand. While the sharpshooters leveled their weapons, officers spotted Bradley McCord. They fell on him, covering the child with their bodies. At the same time, Barile and Jones took aim at Palczynski's sleeping figure with their MP-5 submachine guns, and each squeezed their triggers once. One burst caught him in the neck, the second in the chest and the abdomen. Palczynski was hit a total of 27 times and died in less time than it will take you to finish reading this sentence. It was over.

Before Joseph Palczynski's body had a chance to get cold, allegations that the police had killed him unnecessarily began circulating. The chorus was led by his mother, who insisted upon seeing her son's body at the coroner's office. Palczynski's corpse was covered up to the neck by a sheet, and initially appeared to be in good condition. But when Long pulled the sheet back and saw what the gunfire had done to her son's neck and abdomen, she broke down. "It was all blown away," she said. "The kid was sleeping. He was out like a light and he didn't have a chance. They had no right to do what they did, because there was another way to get him out: tear gas."

. . . and were overjoyed when it was finally over

Both the Baltimore County Police and the district attorney's office began investigations to determine if deadly force had been used illegally. Their conclusion: Given the series of murders that had preceded the siege, Palczynski's threats to kill the hostages and the fact that one hostage remained in the building, the use of force was justified. The only surprise was that Palczynski was not, in fact, holding a gun when he died.

OFFICERS TOOK AIM AT HIS SLEEPING FIGURE WITH SUBMACHINE GUNS AND SQUEEZED THE TRIGGERS

He was holding a cordless phone. The .357 Magnum was on the table next to him, while a .22-caliber rifle lay on the floor beneath the couch. Months later, even his mother became resigned. "I'm only happy that Joe was sleeping when this was happening," she said.

For Andrew McCord and Lynn Whitehead, the end of the hostage drama was the beginning of a new ordeal in which they tried to recover financial compensation for their pain and suffering. First, McCord tried to claim the $10,000 reward that had been offered for information leading to Palczynski's arrest conviction, saying that his 911 call had brought an end to the crime spree. But since Palczynski was killed before he could be arrested or convicted, McCord's claim went nowhere. Then McCord and Whitehead announced their intention to sue Baltimore County for failing to protect them from Palczynski. But because local police had offered to relocate the family or post detectives inside their home while Palczynski was at large (the only thing they wouldn't do was post a squad car outside, "because that would have made those officers sitting ducks," explains a police spokesman) and because both of the offers were declined, the couple had to settle for $3,500 from a crime victim's compensation fund.

For Tracy Whitehead, her next steps would be even more bizarre. In the fall of 2000, she entered a contest sponsored by Howard Stern's TV show to find the person with the most pathetic hard-luck story. When she explained that her ex had kidnapped and raped her, then embarked on a rampage in which he killed four people and held her family hostage for days before being shot to death by a SWAT team, Tracy was judged the winner. Her prize included a trip to Vegas and $100,000 in gambling chips fronted from the Hard Rock Hotel and Casino. She bet the entire pile on a single hand of blackjack. Tracy drew 19; the house pulled five, seven and six. Tracy Whitehead walked away with $100,000.

But it seems a small consolation for all she's been through. In July 2001, she made a half-hearted attempt at suicide by jumping out a second-story window. As she was falling, she was heard yelling, "Everybody wants my money. Everyone is trying to get my money." She sustained minor injuries. FHM

E IS FOR EDUCATION

Meir Sharony is the president of California-based firm The Alexander Institute, which makes educational videos for between-the-sheets underachievers.

So what's the difference between a sex-education video and a traditional adult film?

Our videos aren't just a selection of random porn scenes with big-breasted women. We shoot in real locations, with real-life couples.

Doesn't sound too promising. Surely, you use adult-film stars for added realism?

We do sometimes use actors from the adult-movie industry, but we only use people who are married or in a relationship together. The dialogue is more realistic and the chemistry is right. We try to maintain a balance between education and erotica.

Do they shout, "That's the biggest tool I ever did see"?

I have to ask them to tone it down all the time. That is not how real couples talk to each other during sex.

Sure it is. How far do your films go? Do you shoot any really filthy stuff?

We don't go for any close-up gynecological shots or money shots. But we have covered swinging.

Have you shot people with pets?

I won't do anything that involves animals. What's your favorite sex tip?

Talk to each other. Sex is something that should be shared both mentally and physically. Good sex is in the head, not between the legs.

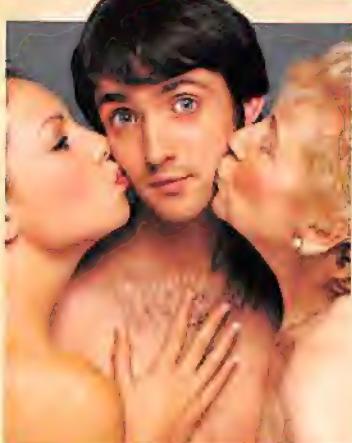

Do you ever get a bit frisky and join in? Me? God, no. We're very professional.

How's your own sex life? Do you ever refer to any of your own videos? My sex life is fine, thank you very much.

F IS FOR FAMILY

The Mandrells were quite fond of groupies

Should your current squeeze happen to be the fresh-faced Karina Currie, it's certainly worth inquiring what her mother is doing later. Especially since both of them are shagsters on the adult-film set. Indeed, with three years' experience under her belt, the stunning 21-year-old is solely responsible for introducing her 45-year-old mother, Lesley—who took up the challenge less than a year ago—into the sex industry. With nine children under her belt, Lesley was desperate to get in front of the cameras, and under her daughter's expert tuition, quickly picked up the tricks of the trade, including how to avoid queefing during open crotch shots. Although they'd like to work together, they stress that incest is out of the question. "I don't take it from behind," Karina says flatly, "and I don't do family members."

G IS FOR G-STRING

Alternately known as the thong or "butt floss," the G-string panty has a long and storied history. In anticipation of the 1939 World's Fair, then-New York Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia decreed that the city's strippers could not dance naked. The remedy was a revealing bit of undergarment that covered the offending area but left much to the eyes. Six years later, legendary French designer Louis Reard shocked the world with his "bikini" swimsuit, named after the atoll where the US tested nuclear weapons. While the swimsuit took off, the G-string was relegated to strip clubs and novelty sex stores until 1981, when Frederick Mellinger, of Frederick's of Hollywood, returned from Brazil, where women had adopted the panties. He immediately began marketing a line known as "Scanty Panties," and a sexed-up disco America soon ate them up. According to Frederick's, the G-string now accounts for 90 percent of their entire underwear sales.

H IS FOR HAIL TO THE CHIEF

When not vetoing bills or declaring war, the most important men in American history liked to wind down in their own special ways.

- ♦ John F. Kennedy While his affairs were legendary, JFK was known as a "six minute wonder," reveling in hooker-laden orgies.
- ♦ Lyndon B. Johnson He once quipped, "I've had more women on accident than Jack Kennedy's had on purpose." Nickname: Bull Nuts.
- ♦ Richard M. Nixon Kept a Chinese waitress on the side for some late-night Hung Far Low.
- ♦ Bill Clinton Known for his tobacco-wielding prowess.
- ♦ Franklin D. Roosevelt Lived in the White House
- with his mistress, Lucy Mercer, while his wife kept quarters with her lesbian "he-woman" lover.
- ♦ Thomas Jefferson Squired a love child with Sally Hemings, a young slave.
- ♦ Grover Cleveland Fathered at least one illegitimate child and was rumored to have "bestial" leanings.
- ♦ Warren Harding The ultimate pervert got busted by his wife, Florence, while porking a teenager in an Oval Office closet.
- ♦ George Washington The Wilt Chamberlain of Colonial America had a penchant for Indian squaws.
- ♦ Andrew Jackson The serial bigamist kept a harem.
- ♦ James Garfield Into group sex, and had even been with two sisters simultaneously.

K IS FOR INJURIES

A little rug burn would have been a welcome outcome for these losers.

- ♦ Thirty-six-year-old Vicki Kropaczek of Raleigh, NC, was in the midst of sex with her boyfriend, Jonathan Garner, when she sustained a life-threatening tear near her cervix. Neither phoned for an ambulance until she had lost nearly half her blood. Stranger still, Garner was a paramedic and Kropaczek, a trauma nurse.
- ♦ John S., of Ontario, Canada, was in bed with his girlfriend when he viciously tore his foreskin. Despite desperate phone calls to his friends to remove him from his parents' house without arousing their suspicion, he eventually walked to the hospital, where doctors circumcised him.

Dead Guy With Boner: Michaelangelo's lost masterpiece

- ♦ London urologists were horrified when a man entered the ER and embarrassingly explained that after some boozing, his girlfriend had, in an overly excited state, managed to bend his old fella into an awkward position until they both heard a loud snap. The 20-year-old patient required surgery on his hopelessly misshapen black-and-blue equipment.

K IS FOR KEGEL EXERCISES
Key to great sex!

Any woman who claims that size doesn't matter is clearly lying. But because enlarging your member requires major surgery, you should go for the less painful option: Get your woman to strengthen her Kegel muscles. Tighter vaginal muscles can be achieved by having her lay down on the floor with her knees bent, the soles of her feet facing each other and her stomach and vaginal muscles relax. She should then contract as if stopping a jet of urine. This is how it's done.

1) Slowly contract (one, one thousand)

2) Keep contracting (keep vagina closed) (two, one thousand)

3) Keep contracting (three, one thousand)

4) Keep contracting (four,

one thousand)

5) Squeeze as hard as possible while counting (five, one thousand)

6) Relax (six, one thousand); repeat. This might sound like a colossal pain in the ass to her when you first mention it, but it's quite an easy sell once you announce that the benefits are all hers.

♦ She'll find it will be easier to reach orgasm. ♦ Her climax will be stronger and better because the muscles she's exercised are the same ones used during orgasm. ♦ Her clam will be more sensitive, which in turn heightens sexual satisfaction. ♦ Most importantly, you'll reap the rewards of sliding in and out of a more snug fit.

R
IS FOR RISK

Your old friend chlamydia is back! Although fully treatable and easy to spot in men, the clap has indeed returned, thanks to all you nasty college students. An honor last claimed by herpes, the painful throne has now been reacquired by the pus-penis.

IS FOR SENIORS

At an age when the rest of us can realistically expect to be peeing through catheters, Rose Edwards pulls down her panties for packed houses all over the US. And just how old is this "mature" hottie? She's 74.

Have you made any bodily improvements since you began stripping? I started at age 70 and had breast implants put in two-and-a-half years ago when I was 72. I felt I needed to be more voluptuous. I'm a 36D now. And you have some piercings? I saw a dancer who had these rings in her labia. I asked what they meant to her, and from what I gathered, it was psychological enhancement, like wearing earrings. So I got rings on my labia and a little jewel put in right above my clitoris. Do you go full-on nude? That's how I prefer to dance. All of your body is beautiful and should be shown.

Reality A world of pain: foreskin catches on amateurish stitching, and general chafing is audibly unpleasant—even with generous scatterings of talc. Avoid.

U IS FOR UNIVERSITY

Professor Richard Burt is a pioneer in the fledgling academic study of pornography. An English teacher at the University of Massachusetts Amherst, he is the self-described Naughty Professor, using porn to teach his students about Shakespeare.

How has porn found its way to college campuses?

At a university interdisciplinary level, it just comes up everywhere. If you're going to study art history, you could study porn, because the first pornographic pictures were created during the Renaissance. Or an anthropology class on early modern man, as they just discovered cave porn in France. And in Pompeii, they've recently uncovered an entire room where porn was kept. You can tell a lot about a particular culture by the porn they look at.

You teach a class called Unspeakable ShaXXXpeares. Does that involve viewing porn in class?

I'll show Shakespeare in Lust, a porn version of Shakespeare's Twelfth Night, and my personal favorite, a very faithful adaptation of A Midsummer Night's Dream that's called A Midsummer Night's Cream. ▶

What do you call your specialized study?

I call it Bardcore, you know like the Bard and hardcore, where Shakespeare becomes the most sexually explicit.

Is Shakespeare naturally pornographic, or does it take an educated imagination?

One moment, they're in Renaissance dress, and the next moment, a girl is yelling, "Oh, fuck me harder!" But in A Midsummer Night's Dream, they stay in character speak, in old English, and during sex, they yell, "Ohh!" and "Ahh!"

Do you have a problem with students thinking they're going to get an easy*credit and just watch porn all semester?

No. There's so much work to be done. We don't sit around in class, cracking beers and getting aroused. Serious study and watching all that porn can actually get quite boring.

So which play is the most pornographic?

A Midsummer Night's Dream is the most pornographic. The characters are having sex all the time. When they talk about "kissing thy stones," that is actually a pun in the Renaissance that means testicles. There are some obscene productions where the characters walk around with large stone balls!

W IS FOR WATER BRA

This $36 miracle turns flat-chested Calista Flockharts into full-sized Pammies. It's filled with a mixture of body oil and water, sealed in a puncture-resistant casing. The H2O Water Bra will fit the contour of any chest. The result is two added sizes of cleavage-starring joy. It's cheaper than a breast enlargement and they're fun to poke too. Just don't ask her to wear one in sub-zero temperatures.

V IS FOR VOYEURISM

In a remarkable feat of persuasion, the city of Santiago, Chile, was cajoled into handing over hard cash to two architects for a project dubbed "Nautilus," which the duo said will "push back the limits between private and public life."

The architects, Arturo Torres and Jorge Christi, convinced local 21-year-old actress Daniela Tobar to live in the middle of town in a glass box for a month. Every day, the South American beauty would rise, shower, sit on the can and then get dressed and head off to work—with a police escort to guide her through an ever-expanding traffic jam full of nosy businessmen. Word of Tobar's free strip show spread like wildfire, with many a local man timing his morning commute to coincide with Daniela's showering. The crowds to watch Daniela pick her toenails in the evening were significantly thinner.

X*IS FOR XL WOMEN

Thanks to beer, all but the chisel-chinned Adonis will—on occasion—find themselves bagging a porker. FHM asked Hanne Blank, author of Big Big Love: A Sourcebook on Sex for People of Size and Those Who Love Them, for tips on loving an extra-large lady.

So what's the best way to get sloppy with a lard ass? For most fat people, the belly-to-belly missionary position is not a winner. But there are ways to adapt: The woman puts her knees on his shoulder, for example. If a lardy lady wanted to kill a man by sitting on his face, would it work?

Well, don't forget that people can bite. Does the size of a woman's vagina increase with her mass? No, it doesn't. Women's vaginas, like men's penises, have no correlation to their body size.

All but the chisel-chinned Adonis will find themselves bagging a porker

Z

IS FOR ZERO SEX

Despite having more than 16 years of experience in a league whose players get more ass than public-restroom toilet seats, former LA Lakers forward A.C. Green claims to be a virgin. He promoted celibacy by wearing a ridiculous-looking green Beanie Baby on his head when sitting on the bench during games. He named the bear Little A.C., which he says stands for Abstinence Committed.

"I had a teammate come up to me and say, 'You don't know how silly you look with that bear on your head,'" Green admits. "I told him, 'You don't know how silly you look when you're running around at night half-drunk.'" The A.C. Green Youth Foundation preaches abstinence before marriage. "Sex is on the rampage," Green says. "We need to be more responsible about it."

Opposing players don't necessarily agree. There was the time in the mid '90s, for example, when Green was playing and Shaquille O'Neal was in town. While Shaq struggled to drain shots from the free-throw line, A.C. called out, "You'll be all right once you get some experience."

Without pausing, Shaq fired back, "Yeah, and you'll be OK once you get some."

'BITE MY NECK AND I'M READY TO GO!'

When the ladies of Vivid Video dispense sex advice, it would be a wise move to listen, considering they've humped more junk than a desert camel

What's the most common misconception men have about adult film stars?

RAYLENE: They see us with a lot of different people and they automatically think that we're going to be with a bunch of different people in real life. They see us in a scene with three different guys and they multiply that by 40, and so they automatically assume we're not trustworthy.

TAYLOR: I think it's really ironic. I feel like it's an inside joke, and we get to be the ones inside. Most people don't realize that we have lives, and it's just like acting. I don't go up to Julia Roberts and say, "Hey, you're a hooker, right?" Sometimes it's just a job and you show up for work and you don't particularly like being on the set.

Considering men think nothing turns you off because you have sex with so many gross guys, what actually does turn you off when you're not filming?

DASHA: Guys who smoke and don't brush their teeth before sex.

RAYLENE: The worst is when you're having sex with a guy who's dripping sweat into your eye or into your mouth. Ugh! All salty.

What should men be doing in bed to turn you on?

TAYLOR: Take control and try to experiment a little bit. But not in a Jeffrey Dahmer way. Don't be too aggressive or overly into it. I think that's the first turnoff for me, when a guy is really panting over me.

DASHA: Oh! I like that.

TAYLOR: It just has to be the right guy. But if it's the wrong guy, then it has to be the right cologne. That can make up for a lot of things. I've had better sex with people who were wearing cologne, because I got more into it.

Do you or any of your porn star friends ever get harassed in public?

DASHA: My friends, who are girlfriend and boyfriend, went to a bar one night, and the girl was sitting at the bar and just drinking her drink—she's kind of famous—and some ridiculous guy came over and said, "You're a porn chick. I know you are all HIV-positive. You're fucking nasty." He got his ass beat. We are probably safer than all those people out there who go to bars and go home with strange people and then have sex. We are all tested and use condoms.

Please tell the truth: Does size really matter?

DASHA: Oh, my God, yes! I've had sex with the smallest dick ever. I was like, "How big is this?" It was two inches. And I just couldn't feel anything.

RAYLENE: Yes . . . you have fantasies about a person forever, and then they come to your house and you start kissing them and it's like, "OK, let's just go down for it." And I pull his pants down, and it's just small. So size does matter.

What can a "disadvantaged" guy do to turn you on every time?

DASHA: Bite my neck. I'm ready to go.

RAYLENE: Yeah!

TAYLOR: Yeah!

Have you ever been shocked by a sexual experience?

TAYLOR: I went out with this cop one time in Chicago, and he seemed like he was such a good boy. We went to his place, and under the bed he had restraints. He started kissing me, and all of a sudden, he bit me hard. Then he slapped me too. It was erotic, but a little bit too hard.

What's the one sure-fire way to get booted out of your bed?

RAYLENE: Lose a hard on. I'll get up and watch TV. I'll eat. Have a smoke. I'll say, "I'll come back soon, I swear to God." And I won't. You don't really get kicked out of my bed—you get lured out.

What's the most embarrassing thing that has happened to you while the camera was rolling?

RAYLENE: Oh, my God! We had this big orgy scene with 14 girls, right? And this girl Devon got so into what she was doing. I'd just had some minor surgery on my nose and she swung out and kicked it. It totally started bleeding everywhere.

TAYLOR: I've seen somebody fall asleep for real before. Just fell right asleep.

What advice would you offer to an FHM reader who wanted to get his boys emptied by a porn star?

RAYLENE: You have to be normal. You have to be a friend. We have to get to know you. Not just anybody is going to be able to get into our pants.

How often do you meet men who just want to get into your pants?

RAYLENE: Hourly. One time, I was doing a lap dance at a table for a guy at a club. He was really persistent about going out with me and giving me his phone number and trying to get mine from me. He kept wanting the dances and paid $100 a dance, so of course, I'm going to keep doing it and just listen to him yap on and on about how much he wants to go out with me. And I bent over and did this really weird position, and he stuck his fingers right inside of me. That was horrible.

Does "the shocker" work on girls who really can't be shocked?

RAYLENE: I turned around and slapped him. And the bouncers threw him out on his face.

Without getting slapped, how can a guy get a girl to do something saucy she might not otherwise be interested in doing?

RAYLENE: Get her drunk.

TAYLOR: Tell her, "It's OK, everyone is doing it. God, my last girlfriend was so cool with it."

Do you ever keep the juices flowing after the director yells, "Cut!"?

RAYLENE: Oh, hell yes! On the set of Where the Boys Aren't! We all kept going. It's totally easy to tune other people out and forget that they're standing around, forget that you're supposed to be in a certain position so that they can see it with their lighting.

And finally, what's your favorite state of mind for a sex session?

RAYLENE: I like it every way. I love to be drunk and have sex. I love to be high and have sex.

TAYLOR: Me too. God, my mom can never take a look at this issue. FHM

ROMIJN-

WHO'S A MODEL, AN ACTRESS, AND SOMETIMES, A BALL BUSTER

STAMOS

BY STEVEN KOTLER • PHOTOGRAPHY BY RANJIT CREWAL

1 What's the best way to say hello?
With direct eye contact.

2 Walk us through what you are wearing.
I'm wearing jeans—they came from the Denim Doctor. It's a healthcare thing—it's very big in LA. You can take your favorite old Levi's there and they'll operate on them. My black tank top has a built-in bra. The belt's brown with brass studs all over it, and it's got a huge oval brass buckle that doubles as a weapon.

3 What topic makes you blush?
Nothing, really. I'm very difficult to embarrass. Wait—charming men can make me blush pretty easily.

4 What are the three essential ingredients of love?
Milk, sugar and chocolate.

5 Sean Connery, Roger Moore or Pierce Brosnan?
Oh, definitely Sean Connery.

6 What's your policy on car sex?
Cars should be able to have sex whenever they want. But it's been a while since I've had sex in a car. I'd say if you are going to do it in a car, you should opt for a '57 Chevy rather than a Gremlin.

7 Word association: Scott Baio.
Oh, God. I don't want to bust on '80s teen idols. I'm married to one!

8 If you were in a porno, what would your screen name be?
How does this game go? It's the street you grew up on and your first pet's name, right? So my porn name would be . . . Amelia Rose.

9 Have you ever had to instruct a guy in bed?
Oh, yeah, but I don't call it instruction, I call it dirty talk.

10 Describe the way you dance.
Crazy. I look like a squid on fire. I just do what comes naturally and it's not always pretty. We had a crazy impromptu dance party the other night at home. When you're in the privacy of your own living room and you put on disc No. 2 from the In Yo Face funk series, it doesn't matter what you look like. We ended up in the pool.

11 You have 10 seconds to advertise anything you want. Got!
Wear a seat belt, wear a helmet, wear a rubber and finish high school.

12 Name three words that start with the letter X.
Xylophone, xenophobia and . . . Xanax.

13 Sunday is best for . . .
Flopping. I've got this giant couch. It's big. Huge. It's an L-shaped sectional. Seats 15. So Sunday is for lying on my couch with 14 friends and watching movies all day.

14 When did you last feel utterly insignificant?
Last week. My husband and I put on hats and sunglasses and took my two nieces to Disneyland. We're crazy about Disneyland. I can't explain it; we go all the time. But talk about feeling utterly insignificant—we were waiting in line for the Peter Pan ride for hours. You'd think the roller coasters would have the longest lines, but no, it's the little-kid rides. You should just take a number for the Peter Pan ride.

15 Do fish sleep?
Yes—with their eyes open. Did you know that fish have a three-second memory? I'm jealous of fish; that's a beautiful way to live.

16 What's the worst job you've ever had?
My first job was at a gourmet poultry shop and I used to cut up dead chickens. I cut my fingers all the time and I'd hand people these bloody packages, and they would think it was chicken's blood, but really, it was mine. My fingers still have scars all over them; it's horrible.

17 If there were a Rebecca Romijn-Stamos island, what would the beach attire be?
If it were just me on the island, then nude. Absolutely. But if there were other people on the island, then they'd have to wear aprons. There are just some people who I don't want to see naked. They 18 Can you name any feats of Hercules?

He's got 10 toes and I'm sure they're pretty callused from all that hard work.

19 What person has just about got it right?
I guess Martha Stewart's out for the obvious reasons, right? Most of the people who got it just about right are people you wouldn't know, and if they're people you do know, then they're not exactly role models. I mean, to get to the point of getting it just right isn't easy. But I'd say it's got to be Tommy Lee.

20 On what occasions do you pray?
Morning, noon and night.

21 Have you ever called a 976 number?
You know, my husband just recently called a bunch of gay 976 hotlines and introduced himself as Bobby and left Bob Saget's phone number on them. I thought that was pretty good.

22 Describe Conan O'Brien's hair.
Orange, very nicely done and minty fresh.

23 Finish this sentence: Steve Irwin the Crocodile Hunter is . . .
My hero and probably really good in bed.

24 What's the nicest way to tell someone they smell bad?
I'm usually not very delicate about that. I go straightforward: "Excuse me, have you ever heard of soap?" There's really no nice way to tell someone they smell bad.

25 What TV show did you never miss as a kid?
The Facts of Life. I loved that show.

REBECCA ROMIJN-STAMOS

REBECCA ROMIJN-STAMOS

26

Tell us three facts about Axl Rose.

MIA. Used to go out with Stephanie Seymour. The higher you fly, the longer you fall.

27

Have you ever cursed on TV?I said nipple once on The Tonight Show. I was talking about airbrushing body parts and I asked Jay, "Is it OK to say nipple on TV?" He was like, "No, we say areola, Rebecca."

28

What's your least favorite city in America?

Houston. It's big and concrete and boring and way too hot.

29

When is it OK to call a guy a bitch?

Ooh, I love that. When he's being one. It's such a slam to a guy's masculinity. It's a double slam. So few words pack punches anymore. It's like using the "C" word with women.

30

What has the best chance of existing: the Loch Ness Monster, Big Foot or aliens?

Aliens—that's aliens in general, right? I mean the Loch Ness Monster and Big Foot are just two guys playing dress up. With aliens, there's that Fox Mulder thing. Hey, I mean you could be an alien.

31

What person would you most like to see naked?

I picture people naked all the time. That's just something I do, but I'm often wrong. I go to this spa where people run around nude, and I'm always really surprised at shaving preferences. I see a lot of lightning bolts and hearts down there.

32

Have you ever seen a dead body?

Yes. A naked old lady. Somebody dumped the body near the bottom of our driveway. It was early in the morning and the Fed Ex guy was delivering a package to me and he said, "Whatever you do, don't turn left at the bottom of your driveway if you're leaving this morning, because there is a dead body down there." So I had one of those Stand By Me moments and ran down there to check it out.

33

What two words make you shudder?

Flaccid nipple. Ewww.

34

What have you done for money that you're ashamed of?

Prostitution—got a problem with that? Sold crack to children—is that bad? So what, no big deal, right?

35

How many people named Joe do you know?

Joe Mama, Joe Daddy, Joe Bald-Headed Granny, Joe Namath, Joe Boxer.

36

How long should "it" last?

Um . . . weeks, I mean hours, I mean what do you mean by "it"? Three weeks seems excessive.

37

When was the last time a guy pinched your ass in public?

Today. It was my husband.

38

If you had to part with either your pinkie or your big toe, what would it be?

Pinkie, for sure. You need your big toe for balance and other stuff like that.

39

What do you most often complain about?

Obscure random questions from journalists. I get those all the time, you know?

40

When was the last time you watched a dirty video?

My friend gave me this amazing X-rated DVD that's porn from the '20s. It's crazy. Threesomes, guy-on-guy . . . it's hardcore, crazy stuff.

41

Why do actors get all the chicks?

I don't know. I'm sure not getting all the chicks. So I'm not even sure actors get all the chicks.

44

The best thing $100 can get you is . . .

Me! Just kidding. A Greyhound ticket to Las Vegas.

45

When was the last time you appeared in the National Enquirer?There was a story that I snotted on Al Pacino when I was doing a make-out scene in a movie called Simone. They said a drop of snot fell out of my nose and onto his face—which it did—but they said I ran away crying, which isn't true. I was embarrassed, but I sure wasn't crying. Why would I cry over snot?

42

What does the word gobbledegook mean?

I use that word all the time—I love that word. It's in the dictionary too. It means mumbo jumbo.

43

Is bald more beautiful?

I do think bald is sexy, and a head shaved completely bald is really sexy. Wait, is this a circumcision question? What exactly are you asking me? I think the question should be "Is 'what' bald more beautiful?"

46

Do you carry your Screen Actors Guild card with you at all times?

No, but I never leave home without my Petco Pals card. I take it everywhere.

47

What are the ingredients of soap?

Unless it's glycerin soap, it's all made from fat. That's what the "99 percent pure" on Ivory soap means—pure fat. Let me put it to you this way: I use shower gel.

48

Have you ever gotten out of a speeding ticket because you are Rebecca Romijn-Stamos?

No, but if you're a girl and the cop's a guy, the best way to get out of a speeding ticket is to tell the cop you just got your period and you're bleeding all over the place and you're rushing home to get a tampon.

49

Tell us about the last time you met a rock star.

I spent two hours dancing with Mick Jagger in Paris last month. I'm much taller than he is, but he's got those unmistakable Mick Jagger hip moves.

50

What's the best way to say goodbye?

So long, bitch.

Rebecca's new film, Rollerball, opens on February 8, 2002. You can see more of her at FHMUS.com

THE DOMINATRIX

Isabella Sinclaire on how cannibalism, crucifixions and torture by tickling are all in a day's work

How did you become a dominatrix?

I was in high school when I realized I always wanted to put people in uncomfortable situations. I grew up in a small town in the South and there weren't many pretty girls. I happened to be one of them, so it was kind of fun to see boys do whatever I wanted just to go on a date with me. That's where I got the inclination to want to control the situation. Then I studied psychology in college and got asked to a convention with friends. We had to dress up as certain characters, and my character had high leather boots and a whip. I didn't even know what a dominatrix was, but I had all these people coming up to me saying, "Will you hit me with that whip?" or "Flick it at me, tie me up with it." It was great. So at college, I started focusing on that. Then I moved to New York and found myself very drawn to that dark side. I went to all the clubs and just watched at first, then I went professional and realized I was a natural at it. One minute, I looked like the girl next door, and the next, I was this whip-wielding, high-heel-wearing vixen.

How long have you been doing it?

Ten years without ever feeling I need to stop. I don't know if I ever will.

Are you famous in the dominatrix world?

I am kind of like an icon. They call me the Madonna of the S&M industry, meaning that I'm always on top of the game, always doing new things.

What sort of men are your clients?

I meet people in all walks of life—doctors, lawyers, policemen. It's not just restricted to the mail clerk who never says a word to anyone. To be able to afford such an indulgence as playing like this, you have to be either pretty wealthy or very thrifty.

How much does it cost?

Me, and a few others who have been doing it a long time and have full dungeons and thousands and thousands of dollars worth of equipment, can charge $250 an hour.

Do you pick and choose your clients?

There is a screening process—I don't see just anyone. A lot of people categorize my work as the sex industry,

Q What is the most common request?
A Foot worship. A good majority want to kiss my feet and things like that.

so I have to clarify immediately that it is not prostitution and there is no sex. It is psychological—for people who yearn to feel what it is like to be completely out of control.

You say it's nonsexual, but don't they expect more?

For the vast majority of the people I see, it's purely psychological. The idea is that they are getting aroused, but they are also being denied. It is like being teased. These are people who want to worship something higher than them.

What kinds of implements do you use?

Pretty much anything from a feather to a bullwhip. It's just a matter of finding the right thing for people. All the floggers want to progress from light whips and build up.

What is the most common request?

Foot worship. A lot of people love beautiful feet, and I have really nice-looking feet from what I've been told. So a good majority want to kiss my shoes and bow to my feet and things like that. And secondly: bondage.

And some of the stranger requests?

One client was interested in being cannibalized. It was unusual, because it was an all-verbal session. He sat in a corner, and I told him I was the head priestess of a female-run village in the Amazon and we had men for slaves. Most we used as labor, but we kept a few for breeding purposes, and a handful we reserved to be fattened up to eat at the harvest feast. I told him he was being served at the feast, because he was kind of short and pudgy. A couple of times he brought apples so he had something to eat when I'd say, "You're going to have to eat until you get fat!"

Do you have a favorite service that you provide?

Sensory deprivation: I have them completely immobilized, bound in leather or latex with their arms, body and head tied down. And they might be gagged or blindfolded or have plugs in their ears. Basically, I remove all elements of their sensory self until they are totally in their mind and can only think, "Where is she going to touch me? What is she going to do to me next?" One thing I enjoy is when I have someone tied up, and then I ask if they've ever had a woman look them in the eyes and kick them in the balls at the same time. A lot say no and I say, "Oh, yes you have," and rear back as if I'm going to kick them. To see the sheer panic they go through is fantastic, then I just kind of laugh at them. It lets them know that once they're tied up, anything could happen. I'm the type of person that really could do that. If they liked the idea of being kicked, I would be able to do it.

Does it ever upset you that you're causing them pain?

No, because I know they're enjoying it and they're asking me for it.

How long is a session?

Usually, it's an hour, but every once in a while, I have a submissive who will visit me for five days.

Is touching prohibited?

I allow foot worship, that's it. I've never had any problems. They respect my limits because they are hoping I will respect theirs.

Does your family know what you do?

It's pretty much out and they love it. I'm my own boss, I make a good living, and they're happy because I'm happy.

Do you have a boyfriend?

I am involved, yes. He knew what I did when he met me, and sees that I know what I am doing and that I'm very balanced. He's totally cool with it.

What do you consider your greatest talent?

Being compassionate and intuitive. A lot of people who do this for the first time are afraid I will consider them a freak or think there's something wrong with them. I believe everybody has some sort of perversion. So many people are repressing so much that it drives them crazy. So when someone comes to me for the first time, I let them know that I understand that it is something they need to find out for themselves. I make them feel good about their decision.

And then you hurt them?

No, well, yes, but only if that's what they have asked for.

FASHION EDITOR ELISABETH DICK SOLVES YOUR STYLE WORRIES AND KEEPS YOU FROM LOOKING LIKE AN ASS

JUST ASK DICK

Q My friends make fun of me for carrying my cell phone and pager clipped to my belt, but isn't that better than stuffing them in my pockets?

A Unless you're a doctor or a technician of some kind, wearing your electronic appendages on a belt is about as fashionable as pocket calculators used to be. And given that you're probably already ruining the line of your pants by stuffing your wallet and keys into your pockets, I wouldn't add your phone to the mix. The only option: Carry a bag. They even come with pockets created specifically to hold electronics. That said, if you can't bring yourself to carry a bag, just remove any items clipped to your belt as soon as you get near a datable woman. No matter how cool your ring is, it won't save you here.

Q Is it OK for a guy to wear jewelry other than a watch and a wedding ring?

A Absolutely. But, with all due respect to Mr. T, don't overdo it. Earrings, a few rings and a bracelet or a necklace are perfectly acceptable in most situations, provided they're not too gaudy. A good way to keep things simple is to stick to understated designs in either gold or silver.

Are you completely hopeless when it comes to dressing yourself?

DICK'S DO'S AND DON'TS

Dick scours New York, fashion capital of the world, for the guys who've got it right and the guys who've got it so, so wrong.

Do: For the last few seasons, studs have become a staple in casual threads. If you're not brave enough to try them on jeans or a leather jacket, go for a studded belt. The one this guy is wearing adds interest to his basic T-shirt and jeans.

Don't: Studs, especially paired with leather, are great if you're going for the biker look that's been so hot the last few seasons. But it doesn't mean you have to cover every square inch of your body. You want to make a statement, not blind innocent bystanders.

Cruising for justice in his Mach 5 racecar with adoring girlfriend Trixie in tow, Speed Racer easily tops the list of the best animated heroes of all time. This spring, feed your nostalgia with new threads from Ecko inspired by the celebrated '60s Japanese cartoon. Graphic T-shirts and jackets feature prints, patches and appliques of all the Speed Racer characters. A graffiti airbrush artist in the '80s, Marc Ecko has always looked for new ways to keep streetwear interesting. "Japanese culture has always been incredibly fresh," says Ecko. "And having grown up with the retro style of Speed Racer, I like it much better than today's slicker animation." This canvas jacket, for example, references Speed Racer with its patches and motocross stripes yet maintains the urban edge on which Ecko built his brand. Spider-Man-inspired gear by Ecko will also be in stores this spring.

WHAT PEOPLE SAY:

"...because as a culture we wash daily with scented soaps, these natural pheromones often are removed or overpowered... Today, scientists wonder if our habitual cleanliness creates a subconscious hunger for pheromones..."

SPECIAL DELIVERY

BY BEN CRUBER
PHOTOGRAPHY BY CHRIS GORMAN

To curb your disappointment this gift-giving season, FHM has gathered the goods you can buy after you've returned all the other crap

Hanaho HotRod Joy Stick

Perfection in a box, the HotRod joystick looks and feels so much like a real arcade game controller, you'll want to stack quarters on its rim. Like the real-deal version, it has two joysticks and 14 control buttons. To play your favorite PC game (especially emulator games, such as Space Invaders) just plug the HotRod into your PC's keyboard outlet, and the keyboard into the HotRod, and play until your mom drags you away. $200; www.hanaho.com

Ultra Sport Spotlight

The Ultra Sport Spot features an ABS shell that is weather- and shock-resistant, and it can be recharged from your home or car. But forget all that—this beast throws out a 2-million-candlepower beam! In-office tests confirm it produces a searing heat on your co-worker's face from 20 feet away. This just may be the perfect flashlight for the man who has a real need to illuminate an object two miles away. $30; www.vectormfg.com

FAST FACT
Over one four-year period, Thomas Edison got an average of one patent every five days. However, only the phonograph was his own invention. The rest came through contracts he had with his workers

Roland VG-88
We've all dreamed of jamming on guitar like a Jimi Hendrix. In your dreams, old hippie. But the VG-88 makes it so your guitar can at least sound like one of his. The pedal system uses synthesizer technology that allows your guitar to mimic the sound of the most sought after guitars in history, such as a vintage Les Paul, a Stratocaster and all the other gems you don't deserve to touch. $995; www.rolandus.com

MACHINERY

Bushnell Yardage Pro Scout

Perfect for the avid golfer, hunter or inveterate peeping Tom, this laser rangefinder tells you the distance of objects up to 700 yards away. Just hold the palm-sized monocular to your eye, line up the crosshairs on your target and press the button. Conveniently, it works in metric and standard measures so you don't do anything stupid like crash a Mars Lander.

$300; www.bushnell.com

FAST FACT

A 1999 survey of 25,500 standard English-language dictionary words found that 93 percent of them have been registered as dot-coms

Sony DVD City's Cube

Sometimes you just don't want to stack all your home theater equipment under the TV. Understanding this, Sony has invented a combo CD/DVD player. Big deal, you might think. Well it is, smart ass, because the low-profile Cube can hang on a wall or lay vertically or horizontally on a shelf. And this handsome fellow gathers all the messy cords into one neat bundle, thus enhancing its clean, modern form.

BUY IT ONLINE!

In addition to the plethora of naked women and hours of free games it provides, one of the greatest advantages of the Internet is being able to avoid crowded stores and incompetent salespeople. In search of a few items on our holiday wish list, FHM tested four big-name electronics sites to see how they stacked up

AirSpeak FLAIR computer pad

Using a computer conjures images of slumping forward in your rickety desk chair for hours at a time. Airspeak didn't like that and has created a way to make computing truly mobile. The FLAIR is a wireless monitor (running Windows CE) you can traipse around with and still be able to save everything you want to your PC, without having to use patch cables or clunky cradles.

$1,985; www.airspeak.com

JVC HM-HDS1U dual-format VCR

Another entrant into the combo market, the HM-HDS1U has a 40 gig hard drive as well as standard S-VHS to give you unparalleled recording power. For example, say you're watching Three's Company and Jack has gotten into a particularly funny pickle: just pause the live broadcast, dump it to an S-VHS tape and share the moment later with friends. You can also pull favorite scenes using linear editing functions.

$1,900; www.jvc.com

FAST FACT

The approximate cost to make the movie Titanic was reportedly in excess of $200 million. But if another Titanic ship were built today, it would cost only about $133 million.

Suitcase Bicycle

If you've ever lugged a bulky bag through endless airport lines, then spied a rolling piece of luggage and thought, "Man, I wish I could ride that bitch," you'll be delighted to find that now you can. Kind of. Skoot International's portable bike folds into itself and is the size of a suitcase, yet unfolds into a road-worthy bike. It has a sturdy chrome alloy and ABS plastic frame, lights for safety and space for a slim briefcase in the center.

$1,000; www.hammacher.com

Horizon Panoramic Camera

Photos rarely seem to capture all the naked eye can see. The Horizon panoramic camera aims to fix that: It's rotating 28mm lens captures 120 degrees of view (about 40 degrees wider than a typical camera). It uses 35mm film, but because it takes such wide pictures, you only get 22 shots from a 36-exposure roll. As the wise man once said, "There is always a price to pay for every advance man has made."

007'S NEWEST RIDE!

BY MICAH ABRAMS

Pierce Brosnan is the most convincing James Bond since Connery set the bar, but fans still can't adjust to that stolid Kraut-mobile he's been diddling around in. For the upcoming Bond 20, 007 is back where he belongs: behind the wheel of an Aston Martin, the sleek new V12 Vanquish

Own the stoplight

Drivers the world over lament the disappearing stick shift, but only because they can't afford the Vanquish's technology. The world's first consumer six-speed, drive-by-wire throttle system utilizes the same steering-wheel-mounted paddle shifters that the Magneti-Marelli Ford RVT team uses in Formula 1. The resulting 250 millisecond gear changes will have you in sixth before most drivers can grind their clutch.

Exclusive company

With a V12 engine generating 460 horsepower, only the Dodge Viper, the Corvette Z06 and a few select Italian stallions can even roll to the starting line with the Vanquish. Topping out at more than 190 mph, hitting 60 in 4.5 seconds and clearing 100 mph in less than 10 seconds, this is the fastest British ride since the $1 million McLaren F1, and can be yours for the low, low price of $228,000.

HAL onboard

A Visteon electronic control system governs the Vanquish's computer systems and can process 2 million commands per second. Not only are the various traction-control, transmission, torque-regulating and braking systems constantly communicating, but the controls relay information in 11 languages. Drivers can rest assured that the squirmily Italian components understand exactly what the humorless German ones are saying.

Have it your way

It takes eight weeks to build one Vanquish, and each buyer is invited to Aston Martin's design center in Newport Pagnell, England, prior to production so the car can be built to spec. The only decisions to be made involve color schemes and seat configuration, but the consultation is done with a dashing British accent that the buyer is required to adopt upon delivery of his auto.

FAST FACT

Due to stricter emissions laws, cars in Los Angeles produce exhaust that is actually cleaner than the surrounding smog

Safety second

The Vanquish is obviously built for speed. But to show they care, Aston Martin put the engine, transmission and front suspension in a shock-reducing, deformable composite steel-and-carbon fiber subframe, which is bolted to the front bulkhead and behind the deformable air intake grille. All of which is to say that, while hitting anything at 190 mph isn't a safe bet, there's a chance some of your spleen would survive the crash.

FLASHBACK

As cool as the Vanquish is, let us pay homage to the zippy Bond cars of yore

Aston Martin DB5, Goldfinger, 1964

Technically the third Bond car, the DB5 had several improvements, including machine guns mounted behind the parking lights, a smoke screen, a rear bullet deflector, a passenger-side ejector seat, radar, tire cutters, an oil slick and a battering ram front bumper. Wisely, 007 never went with a base model car again.

Toyota 2000 GT, You Only Live Twice, 1967

Yes, Bond hung only with fine women, but Japanese Bond girl Aki had a hot ride to boot. The ultimate seductress spymobile, the 2000 GT featured a closed-circuit TV, a voice-activated tape recorder and a video recorder in the glove box. Plus, Aki sported what may have been the world's first cell phone.

TRUCKS AND SUVS

Chevy Avalanche 1500 $30,965

Someone at Chevy fed an old El Camino a helping of steroids, then gave it to the creepy guy in the back of the design studio. Thus, we have the Avalanche, a versatile cargo-carrier they like to call the UUV: Ultimate Utility Vehicle.

Optimus Prime's pickup

The Avalanche has a folding "mid gate," which means that what looks like the front end of the truck's bed actually folds down on top of the folded rear seats to turn a five-foot-three bed into an eight-foot-one bed. It's enclosed with a removable rear window and a folding hard top, so there's no problem carrying any load imaginable. Unless you're moving your girlfriend's washing machine. Chump.

The ultimate tailgate machine

You'd think the built-in storage boxes over the rear wheel wells are for tools, but look closer—they've got drains. The Avalanche can be packed with ice and beer, and while all that plastic cladding along the rear might look ridiculous, it's dentproof. So, let Bobby and Billy have their "Headbutt the Truck" contest. The Avalanche can take it.

Nissan Frontier 4x4 Crew Cab S/C Longbed $26,339

Nissan has been an innovator ever since they invented the compact truck market back in 1959. This year's Frontier is offered with the first available longbed in a compact crew cab in the U.S. The supercharged V6 feels like a bigger engine in a smaller truck, and the available Rockford Fosgate audio system sounds as if Black Sabbath is riding shotgun.

Lincoln Blackwood $51,785

Lincoln increasingly suffers from the "old-guy car" tag, which explains this monstrosity. After all, only one guy could possibly be interested in a two-

" -News Article by Deb Levine, M.A

Max (e-mail) "Over my lifetime I have seen many products advertised claiming to increase your attractiveness to the opposite sex. I always figured they were 'snake-oil' and never bothered to purchase them. But in light of other scientific progress made in the field, I decided to try some of your 10X. I had no girlfriend at the time and had broken up with my last one about 30 days before. The information said it could take up to 60 days to notice a change and after 30 days I figured it didn't work, although I kept using it. The one night at an outdoor concert I found myself dancing, hugging and kissing with three beautiful women. The other men in the area were making advances toward them but with no success. They would always come back to me. I noticed the other guys staring at me wondering what in the world it could be, which started me wondering too.

Then I remembered the 10X I had been using! It had been about 60 days exactly. I am dating one of these women steadily now. She is a beautiful model and powerful political figure. I swear I am not making this up! The other two are still pursuing me, one which I had been trying to get a date with for two years... I can't swear it was the 10X, but you can be sure I will be buying more soon! I even recommended it to one of my close friends. Although I plan to keep it to myself for the most part. Who needs the competition?"

YOU CAN AFFORD THESE!

BMW Mini Cooper $18,000

Decades of clowns pouring out of them have diminished the rally-car reputation of the once-famous Mini Cooper. After being stuck with the brand in an ill-fated acquisition a few years back, BMW figured the least it could do was make the car cool again.

Size doesn't matter

Rigidity does, however, and at 50 percent stiffer than the BMW 3-series, the Mini Cooper feels rock solid at speed, during turns and when full of clowns. The new Cooper's 115 horsepower won't blow off any doors, but the 165 horsepower Cooper S is due by 2003, and should convince the ladies that your equipment works fine.

Seriously, it doesn't

A car measuring about 11 feet in length and weighing in at 2,315 pounds doesn't need much of an engine to reach and maintain the speed of a full-size sedan. The base model does zero to 60 in less than nine seconds, and the Cooper S will increase the engine's power by 44 percent, putting its power-to-weight ratio in the same class as Bond's BMW Z3.

Women spend more than $65 million on new vehicles, influence 80 percent of new-car purchases and bought about 60 percent of new cars in 2000

Mazda Protege5 $16,815

Don't be fooled by the 130 horsepower. This sport wagon drives like a car half its size, and the only thing sporty about the front-wheel drive is the stick shift. Still, it's the best-looking Mazda since the original RX-7 was rolled out, and it might finally remove the sissy-tag from the brand that brought your father the cutesy Miata during his midlife crisis.

Subaru Impreza WRX Sedan $23,995

Arguably the best low-end sports car since the Gremlin, the WRX rings in with an astounding 227 horsepower—just two horses less per liter than a Porsche 911 turbo. Again, just to clarify, we're talking about a Subaru here. The Impreza does zero to 60 in a head-snapping 5.6 seconds, red-lines at a healthy 7,000 RPMs, and the limited slip differential keeps all four on the floor, right where they belong. But inevitably, the savings had to come from somewhere: It takes nearly 15 feet longer to stop than that Porsche.

SPORTS CARS

Chevrolet Corvette Z06 $49,705

Owners of the Z06 are advised to learn Italian, because the only car that will step to the line with this 405 horsepower beast is likely to be a Ferrari. Not that the Viper can't hang, but with 'Vettes back to winning "Car of the Year," why buy a Dodge?

Top gun

The Z06 pulls more than one G on its way from zero to 60 in 3.9 seconds. That's not a typo, and it's not the only thing it shares with an F-16. The 'Vette has a heads-up display that projects the speedometer, tachometer and engine temperature info onto the windshield, so you never have to look down to see how far over the speed limit you are.

But it's really just a Chevy

The Z06 couples supercar performance with everyday drivability: Witness the 19/28 mileage and the Low Emissions Vehicle rating. It's nearly $20,000 cheaper than the Viper, has a computer-regulated drivetrain that knows how to handle a parking lot and a suspension that won't bottom out in a pothole. But 48 years after first hitting the road, the 'Vette has continued its renowned tradition of having an interior that still borders on a piece of shit.

FAST FACT

In 1916, 55 percent of the cars in the world were Model T Fords, a record that has never been broken

Lexus IS 300 Sportcross

$32,850
Think of the 300's ECT-i manual transmission as an

F1 for lightweights. The paddles are steering-wheel-mounted, but the system has a computer brain that smoothes things out and adjusts for engine wear. This means high-end performance that can be handled by the amateur driving enthusiast—which would be you.

Mercedes-Benz SLK32 AMG

$54,900

The concept behind the SLK32 is simple: Big engines in small cars go fast. Simple, right? Well, in this case, plopping a goliath, supercharged V6 engine in a 3,132-pound car generates, oh, 109 more horsepower than a Porsche Boxster—enough juice that this beast has to be electronically limited to a pants-filling 155 mph. The engine can push so much air through its cylinders that its nearest rival for aerobic capacity is Lance Armstrong.

TRANSFORMATION

REBUILD YOURSELF!

Turn your body into an unstoppable machine, without entering a gym

In everyday life, strongmen—those hulking, ponytailed gym rats who parade around in colorful sunglasses and zebra-striped Zobas, knowing all too well their arms extend so impossibly far from their sides that they needn't bother wearing pants with pockets—are truly laughable creatures. Still, their superhuman bulk is secretly enviable to most of us when it comes to obvious displays of manliness. Who doesn't wish their body were a lean, mean, indestructible machine?

The good news is that while few of us have an interest in pursuing a life dedicated to reps, large metal plates, tan-in-a-can and a cornucopia of pseudo-medicinal shakes, that doesn't mean we all can't have a sturdy physique capable of impressing even the heartiest muscleheads. FHM has assembled the key elements of the strongman's book of tricks, with tips on how to transform a soft body without ever stepping foot in the dreaded gym.

TRAINING

FOUR STEPS TO INVINCIBILITY!

Try these gym-free methods to make your body Indestructible

Grip

Take a foot-long wooden dowel, tie a three-foot piece of rope to the middle of it and a jug of water to the end of the rope. Grasping the dowel as if you were water-skiing, turn it like you would rev a motorcycle, so the rope wraps around it and the jug is pulled up. Reverse and repeat. Feel the burn.

Bones

Beyond a healthy diet (try beans—they have loads of calcium), researchers have found that even light jogging—as little as 20 minutes once a week—dramatically strengthens bones. And surprisingly, one solid cardio session per week produces the same overall result as two or three average cardio workouts.

Stomach

Standard crunches are the key—and no one does them right. For the record: Lie flat on your back, cross your arms over your chest, and keep your feet a foot from your ass. Slowly roll your shoulders up (not your neck) about six inches, exhaling as you go, hold it and then lower and exhale. Stare at the ceiling to do it right, and think muscley thoughts.

Forehead

The key to a proper can crushing (or a head butt) is using the proper part of your head and being prepared for it. The strongest part of your gourd is the crown of the forehead. If you're going to try to take out an uppity biker, you have to slam that part into his face, going through it, not to it. Go for the softer nose or mouth, or you'll end up seeing stars.

FEATS OF STRENGTH

MAN OF GOD HAS HANDS OF STEEL

Ed Charon preaches clean living, vitamins and tearing up every phone book in sight

What did a phone book ever do to get you so angry?

Years ago, I saw a fellow on TV do one, so I thought I'd try it, and found I could and kept doing it. This December 31, I plan to rip No. 2,001, and then after midnight, 2,002. I rip up about 100 phone books a month.

How do you feed your voracious habit?
I get them from motels. Right now, I've got about 16 truckloads to go through yet. Where did you get such manly hands?

I was born and raised on a farm and always did farm work.

But I've been athletic all my life and always had big legs, big hands, big wrists, big fingers. People talk about how big my hands and fingers are, which I guess is true. My ring size is 16 1/2 and jewelers only measure to 15.

Can I train my relatively puny paws to rip phone books?

Sure. Start off with those spring exercisers, the handgrips. I do 100 of those in 25 seconds or less. I have done as many as 3,200 in 40 minutes—that's 20 minutes each hand. I've got a big spring-loaded bar that you bow down, and I have rubber straps for stretching your arms out. I'm pretty much a vitamin and herb nut. So to follow in my footsteps, clean up your life and take vitamins and exercise. I also try to do about five phone books a day so that I know I'm keeping in shape. And what about techniques for tearing?

My technique isn't a cross tear. My hands are on the top of the phone book, not the side. And I use a forward and then downward motion. Some people break the binding and then tear the side of it, but I tell them that's the girls' way of doing it. Have you thought of a strongman nickname, like The Tearer or something?

Well, I'm the self-proclaimed King. Sometimes I'm called The King or The King of Phone Book Ripping.

If we were ever attacked by an army wielding heavy phone books, would you be able to protect us?

Oh, yeah, I could take 'em out. Most of the phone books I could take care of, I would think.

MEDICINE

WINTER COLD REMEDIES

Before getting drugged up on cold medicine, try these natural solutions

Echinacea

Long the secret of tragic hippies, this herb has been proven to boost your immune system.

It's a common additive to many supplements, but reserve it for when you feel a cold coming on, or your body will get used to it.

Pop 1 to 4 mls three times per day at the onset of a cold and you'll be back at work in no time. Yay.

Vitamin C

The fabled cold-killer isn't really a magic pill. But studies suggest that a heavy-duty dose of 1,000 mg at the onset of a cold can shorten its duration and intensity, especially if you're a scurvy Vitamin C deficient soul from the start.

Zinc gluconate

Like the land mine of cold remedies, zinc works by preventing cold viruses from breeding and traveling to your vulnerable nasal passages, sinuses, throat and lungs. A capsule will boost your body's natural zinc levels, but the best method is a nasal spray or lozenges, to get the zinc right on the rhinovirus bastards.

PREVENTION

THE COLD CONSPIRACY

FHM dispels four common myths about the common cold

Myth 1: If you go out with wet hair or no coat, you can catch a cold.

The truth: Studies have shown that temperature has little, if any, effect on a person's ability to fight a cold. In fact, the prime cold season begins in late August. So, while getting hypothermia may weaken your immune system and make your body a little more susceptible to a cold virus, the reality is that even healthy people will get a cold when directly exposed to one—they just may not show all the symptoms.

the more you blow your nose and swallow your snot, the more the infection spreads. Use medication to dry out your nose and sinuses and you'll be better off.

Myth 3: Drinking dairy is bad for a cold.

The truth: Though you may feel like gobbling up a looger after having a glass of milk, dairy isn't converted into nasal mucus, so it won't affect your cold in any way.

Snot: nebulous

Myth 4: You should starve a fever and feed a cold.

The truth: The middle ground is the safest way to go. If you stuff yourself, your body uses energy to digest what would otherwise be used to fight off the cold. And if you starve yourself, your body has no energy to fight your fever at all. Easily digested foods in moderation are the key.

67% of Women Say They're UNHAPPY With The Size Of Their Lover's Penis...

Muscles, Money, and Looks help, but women want a "bigger" man.

The Average Penis Size Is Just 6 Inches... But Who Wants To Be "Just Average"?

Herbal Science Breakthrough!

World-Famous Pharmacist Creates Revolutionary Herbal Pill That Is Guaranteed To Increase Your Penis Size By 1" ... 2" ... 3" ... or more in just a few short weeks! (with absolutely no adverse side-effects)

Dear Fellow Man...

What I'm about to tell you is absolutely true. If you believe me, you will be greatly rewarded for the rest of your life. If you don't believe me... I'll make it worth your while to change your mind. Let me explain.

I'm the President of what I believe is, the most advanced Herbal Nutrition Company in the United States. Over the past few years, my company created some incredible, breakthrough products... but this one has been our most successful by far!

Our latest and most controversial product is called LONGitude and by simply taking 2 LONGitude capsules every day... it will make your penis grow in both length and thickness by a whopping 26%.

Sounds impossible? Of course it does... but 26% of the men who try LONGitude have great success, growing 1" ... 2" ... 3" ... and more. I myself gained 2 1/8" in just 8 short weeks on LONGitude. I am extremely pleased with this product's performance.

I'm a single guy... so I do date quite often and let me tell you man-to-man... NOTHING, and I mean NOTHING beats the look on my lover's face as she sees it for the first time... watching her gasp... almost in disbelief... with a slight look of fear in her eyes. I can't describe how confident a bigger penis makes me feel!

You Don't Believe Me... Right?

I don't blame you for being skeptical of LONGitude... hell, even when my research team told me they had finally got it right after 3 years of research and testing, I didn't believe it. That's why I tried LONGitude personally.

Let Me Explain How LONGitude Works... It'll Help Convince You...

Your penis has three chambers... 2 large ones on top which are your erectile tissue and one smaller one on the bottom which you urinate and ejaculate from. And...

(next page please...)

When you get an erection, your brain releases a hormone which sends blood to your penis, filling your erectile tissue. The blood cavities in your erectile tissue fill to the maximum, giving you an erection.

LONGitude will give you a more muscular look, surely standing apart from other penis... A penis your lover will remember for the rest of her life!

100% Natural & Safe LONGitude Will:

Here's What You Can Expect To Happen Taking LONGitude:

Week 1-3: Your penis will experience greater and longer lasting erections and a noticeable increase in thickness.

Week 4-8: Your penis will have grown in length and will possess much more thickness in both- erect and flaccid states.

Week 9+: Your penis will have taken on a new body, not just longer and thicker, but much harder and healthier.

Now get this... the maximum your erectile tissue can fill with blood creates the size your erect penis presently is. But here's the breakthrough we've discovered... Your erectile tissue can be developed much larger and stronger than it is with our product LONGitude.

Simply put... your penis is EXTREMELY unfit and smaller than what it could be if your erectile tissue chambers were larger (holding more blood). LONGitude will go to work on these chambers - increasing their size in both length and width... to hold more blood... getting you a few extra inches you wish you were born with.

After just a few days on LONGitude, you will start to see and feel much difference in the way your penis hangs and feels when erect.

LONGitude will also promote increased sensitivity... getting you more "feelings" during intercourse, enabling you to achieve ROCK HARD erections ANY time you desire.

- Strengthen and harden your erections like a length of STEEL PIPE!

- Develop your PC Muscle to form a truly "muscular" looking penis that will impress and arouse your lover. I guarantee they'll brag to their friends.

- Enlarge your penis 1-4" or more AT HOME, without vacuum pumps, weights, or surgery.

- Intensify your orgasms.

- Achieve more powerful thrusting ability.

- Last as long as you want without drugs.

- Achieve ROCK HARD erections any time you want... your lover won't believe it!

- Safely and Permanently enhance your penis size, strength, and ability without expensive and dangerous pumps, weights, drugs, or surgery.

- And much, much more!

When you feel you are at your peak performance level in penis size and mass... you'll have a new found confidence... knowing you can please any woman more than any other man could - no matter how hard he tried!

It's pretty simple to understand... the size of your erectile tissue chambers is what limits your penis to the size it is now. LONGitude painlessly makes these chambers longer and wider, holding more blood... making your penis several inches longer.

90% Of Men Have A 6" Penis...

That's The Average Size

LONGitude is made for men that are NOT HAPPY WITH AVERAGE!

You don't want to make an average income... live in an average home... drive an average car... why settle for an average penis... especially since it is inexpensive and safe to have some serious machinery between your legs.

Try LONGitude without risk... here's how:

A One-Month supply of LONGitude (60 capsules) costs just $59.95 plus shipping. Get yourself a bottle right now by calling 1-800-518-3492 with your credit card, 24 hours a day - 7 days a week. PS: In a recent survey conducted by Durex Condoms, 67% of women said that they are unhappy with the size of their lover's penis. Proof that size does matter! A larger penis has much more surface area and is capable of stimulating more nerve endings, providing more pleasure for you and your partner. A man endowed with a 7" or 8" penis is simply better "equipped" than a man with a 5" or 6" penis. Would you rather have more than enough to get the job done... or fall short. It's totally up to you.

PPS: A special bonus if you are one of the first 250 men to try LONGitude risk-free... You'll receive FREE membership into our Preferred Customer Club where you'll receive a $20 discount off every future bottle of LONGitude. In addition, so you do not go a day without our capsules, you'll automatically receive a new 30-day supply every month and we'll bill you just $39.95, plus shipping - that's $20 OFF the retail price. Trust me- after a week on LONGitude you will not want to live a day without this product until you reach your optimum length. Once you reach your optimum length in about 3 months, call us and we'll stop sending automatic shipments. There is no minimum amount of bottles to buy and you can cancel shipments at any time. And if you take us up on our 30-day money back guarantee, your credit card will never be billed again.

PPPS: This breakthrough product will make your penis grow, and grow until you decide it's the perfect size. When it reaches it's optimum size, stop taking LONGitude. You do not have to take LONGitude ever again- the results are permanent. Most users stop taking LONGitude once they reached 8" to 9" (about 12 weeks). It is not advised to go past the 9" limit for the simple fact that you'll be too big for many women.

Here's Some Of The Most Common Questions New Users Have:

What Is LONGitude?

LONGitude is a 100% safe and natural formula that is guaranteed to increase penis size by an average of 26%.

How Does LONGitude Work?

LONGitude permanently enlarges your two erectile tissue chambers in your penis to hold more blood during an erection... thus, making your penis much, much larger in size.

Are There Any Negative Side-Effects?

Absolutely zero. A positive side-effect is that you'll be more sensitive, enjoying intercourse more.

How Do I Take LONGitude?

Simply take 2 easy to swallow capsules every day.

How Long Can I Expect My Penis To Get?

Measure yourself during full erection and add 26% - that is the average size increase. LONGitude will continue to work the longer you use it.

How Long Will It Take To Work?

LONGitude will start working instantly, making your penis thicker and erect more often. Length growth starts a few weeks later and the total process usually takes 12 weeks.

How Long Should I Take LONGitude?

Take it until you get to 8" or 9". After you get to this size, we advise you stop taking it. Any longer of a penis would be too large for most women to handle.

What Are The Ingredients of LONGitude?

LONGitude is a proprietary blend of the following 100% safe and natural ingredients: Zinc, 300 Yohimbe, Maca, Catuaba, Muira Pauma, Oyster Meat, L-Arginine, Oat Straw, Nettle Leaf, Cayenne, Pumpkin Seed, Sarsaparilla, Orchic Substance, Licorice Root, Astragalus, Tribulus, Boron, and Ginseng.

FAMILY TOGETHERNESS

Son meets new sibling

My mom was dating a guy from out of state, and they eventually got engaged. Since our families were about to be forced together, this guy decided to bring his daughter down to meet everybody for one great big uncomfortable get-together. The night before they were to arrive, I went out to a club to blow off some steam with my buddies. About an hour in, I noticed this little cutie giving me the eye. The girl and I started dancing and eventually, were making out in the corner of the club. Excited that something was going right, I snagged her number as she left. The next morning, I stumbled into the big family brunch only to find the girl from the night before at the table. She was my future stepsister! Plus, she was only 17, had gotten into the club with a fake ID and had given me a fake phone number! An awkward brunch, to say the least.

HAIR CARE

Husband relaxes wife

The day before my wife's big family picnic, she had to work too late to have her hair done, so she asked me to pick up a relaxer kit at the store. Having four sisters, I'd seen the hair-relaxing process done so many times that I figured I could do it too. When my wife got home, I put on the gloves and poured the chemicals on her head. She said it was burning, but I insisted she had 10 minutes to go. When I washed out the relaxer, all of her hair fell into the sink with it. By the time I was done, she was

FHM TRUE STORY OF THE MONTH

CATTLE PROD

Hicks bully beef

I grew up on a farm, and one night after a big snow, some friends and I got drunk and decided to go tip cattle. Our first victim happened to be on top of a hill, and we watched in amazement as the cow slid down the snowy slope on its side like a big mooing toboggan. It was awesome. My friend Jimmy decided he wanted to hop on a tipped cow and ride it downhill. It sounded like fun, so we stomped through the snow to the next hilltop cow and gave it a shove.

Jimmy awkwardly jumped on the cow-sled, fumbled around for a handhold and ended up mercilessly squeezing an udder until a hoof to the thigh sent him tumbling into the snow. As he hobbled to his feet, white liquid dripped from his face; he'd taken a squirt of milk to the eye. Judging by the fevered mooing, the cow seemed to have an exciting slide to the bottom of the hill, but all Jimmy got was a grapefruit-size bruise and a new nickname: Gay Porn.

bald and crying hysterically. Of course, we didn't go to the picnic the next day, and my wife wore a wig for the next three months. On the bright side, she knows I love her even if she looks like that ugly-ass Sinead O'Connor.

SHOE SHENANIGANS

Prankster gets yanked

My friend Tommy claims he is "King Prankster," and, admittedly, he's gotten many of our friends with his practical jokes. Finally, his girlfriend came up with a way to get back at him. All we needed was some fishing line, one of his stinky shoes and the knowledge that he falls dead asleep right after busting a nut. One night after a party, we all crashed at his place. His girl went into the bedroom and gave him a "Lewinsky." When he passed out, she lassoed his member with the fishing line, then ran the line out to me in the hallway. I tied his smelly shoe to the other end, and then went back into the bedroom with a video camera and placed the shoe on his chest. Tommy took a few deep breaths before waking up with a disgusted look on his face. Instinctively, he hurled his shoe in my direction. It never reached me, but he got yanked out of bed and screamed like Chris Tucker in Money Talks. As soon as the pain dulled enough for him to run, Tommy chased me around his apartment complex, yelling so loud that the cops came. I showed them the video, and they got such a laugh out of it, they let us go.
